Rescuers are praised

A luncheon this week at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville publicly honored students who were involved in the dramatic rescue of a seven-year-old boy from Tower Lake on the campus Saturday afternoon, Jan. 6.

Dr. Ria Frijters, vice-president for business affairs, said the special recognition luncheon was arranged to salute the students who risked their lives to save the child. One of the students also fell in the lake about 25 feet offshore while trying to reach the boy in open water where ducks had been swimming.

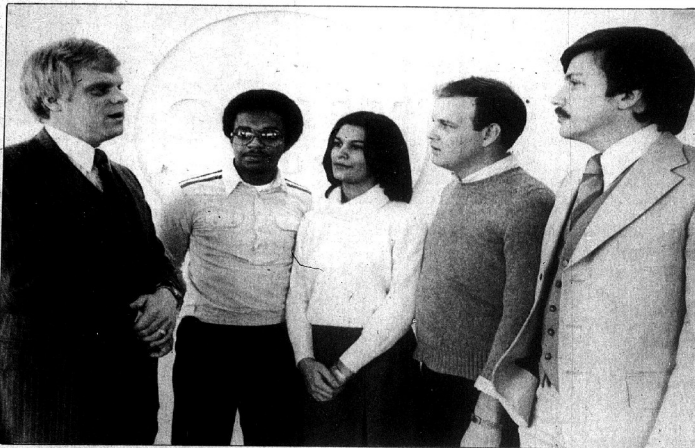

Sean Tidwell, a second grader at Nelson School in Edwardsville, was unconscious and apparently not breathing when he was pulled from the lake at about 4:30 p.m. Jan. 6 by Mrs. Cecelia Cook, a resident of Tower Lake Apartments.

The child responded promptly after artificial respiration was begun by other Tower Lake residents, including Mrs. Cook's husband, David, and Ken Farmer. David Cook is from Granite City.

Also assisting was Tony Drake, a Tower Lake resident manager, who rescued Cook after he had fallen into the lake as he struggled to reach the submerged child.

Drake said Cook was the first adult at the scene. As he approached the boy, he slipped on the ice near the open water and tumbled into the lake, also.

Fund sharing for city payroll

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer

Ordinances amending Granite City's general operating budget and the federal revenue sharing budget for the 1978-79 fiscal year were enacted by the City Council Tuesday night amid objections by most aldermen to the growing use of revenue sharing funds for salary purposes.

Several council members warned that in turning to revenue sharing monies to pay salaries the city is putting itself in a dangerous financial position in the event the government eventually abandons the revenue sharing program for aiding cities.

"If federal revenue sharing funds were cut off today, this city would be dead — so would most cities," Alderman Sam Whitmer of the Second Ward, told the council.

The discussion developed after a proposed amendment to the revenue sharing budget, decreasing some of the earlier appropriations and increasing others, was submitted for final passage by Ordinance Committee Chairman Roy Poulos.

Primarily, the amended revenue sharing budget added such items as $799 for the purchase of a concrete saw, added costs for the new police station roof and salaries and costs in some categories for which the amount of expenditures was not projected in the original budget.

It also eliminated funds for purchase of two pieces of street department vehicular equipment which brought objections from some aldermen.

The aldermen also approved an ordinance establishing revisions of expenditures in the regular operating budget, which included an increase of $190,532 in the police department budget and an increase of $104,183 in fire department appropriations.

In response to an inquiry by council members, Arvil Taylor, administrative aide to Mayor Paul Schuler explained that in both the police and fire departments, the budget additions resulted from underfunding in the original budget adopted last July.

Taylor explained also that several additional items listed in the revenue sharing budgets included projected expenditures for which actual amounts were not established at the time the original budget was set up.

Charles Douglas, alderman of Ward One, told the council.

"I would like to know if salaries are included in the list of priorities for which federal revenue sharing money is intended. I am sure the first priority is for capital expenditures and not for salaries."

"I would like to suggest that the U.S. government is getting conservative. We Study robbery warning devices

By MICK STRANGE
Press-Record Staff Writer

Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk at the Tuesday evening Madison City Council meeting announced that he is studying several different types of warning devices, in addition to the current burglar alarm system, but made no mention of hiring additional police.

"Everyone is aware of the sad tragedy in the death (Jan. 19) of Jim Perdue. Jim was an outstanding businessman and citizen and a close personal friend.

"I don't think any kind of preventive measures could have stopped the sick people who shot Jim."

"At our next council meeting, I will present some preventive measures that are currently being studied. Our police are also trying to take steps to increase the safety of our city."

"There are many ways and means for preventive measures and the cost will be minimal," Mayor Sasyk said.

Some of the items the mayor is

A multi-team effort by cooperating police agencies is being used by Madison Police Chief Donald L. Bridick in an attempt to solve the recent armed robbery and killing of Madison businessman James Perdue and the wounding of James "Sonny" Cragle.

"The Venice police, East St. Louis police, Illinois Department of Law Enforcement and our officers are working together on this tragedy," Chief Bridick said.

"So far, we have been following numerous possible leads supplied by citizens. We have had 10 so far, and we are trying not to leave a stone unturned," he added.

"We called in Alva Busch, a crime scene technician for the State of Illinois, immediately after the shooting. We also are collecting photos of known Assistant Madison County State's Attorney Bob Trone has ordered Granite City police to release a 28-year-old youth who admitted shooting Frederick J. LaCicero, 32, of 6 Ronbury Court, fatally in the 3000 block of Maryville Road Monday morning.

A grand jury Feb. 15 is to consider the circumstances surrounding the shooting.

Among those who have been questioned by authorities is Theodore Heck of 2661 E. 28th St. Neighbors in that area reported hearing a series of shots and police arrived to find a young man standing in Maryville Road waving his arms for the police car to stop.

The man allegedly told police, "I can't deny it. I shot him, but it was in self-defense." Officers said evidence at the scene indicated Mr. LaCicero had a handgun and a shotgun in his car and he was shot through the car's passenger window at least two times by a handgun.

Evidence also indicated that he was beaten on the head, probably after he was shot.

Investigators said pieces of the gun which was believed to have shot Mr.

School resumes; await more snow

Quad-City public and parochial schools resumed classes today after a one-day closing that followed another severe winter storm which swept into the area during the morning rush hour Tuesday.

Freezing rain, snow and plunging temperatures were the rule as the new storm moved through the Quad-Cities and surrounding region Tuesday and Wednesday.

It was more of the same that has prevailed since New Year's eve when the first ice storm of the year moved into the area, snapping power lines, uprooting trees and causing thousands of power outages.

More freezing rain is predicted tonight and Friday, with a likelihood of more snow on Friday, according to the National Weather Service.

Tuesday's freezing rain hit the area at a time when the morning rush hour was just getting under way and caught most motorists by surprise. Rain fell throughout the area and froze as it hit the roads and highways, slowing traffic to a crawl.

Authorities reported hundreds of accidents, most of them minor, but some involving injuries. There were no fatalities or serious injuries reported.

YMCA growing

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

A growing, building and vibrant YMCA was lauded by members of the "Y" board of directors, officers and staff members during the YMCA's 60th annual meeting Monday night.

Outgoing president Paul Christiansen told those present "I know your heart lies here," and said the YMCA needs to continue to be a family and a good neighbor.

"We've paid all our bills. We are a good neighbor and we need to continue to set the example for the downtown section of Granite City, keeping our bills paid and our snow shoveled."

"I think the decision of the YMCA to stay downtown has been important to the rise of downtown Granite City," Christiansen said.

Executive Director Paul Grennell said he has been proud of the recent growth in the YMCA, both in its income and in its programs and offerings.

He noted his personal goal when he came here two years ago was to see income of $200,000 generated per year and said the 1978 income was $200,082. The United Way was the largest contributor with $58,438, membership generated $41,057 and program fees drew $41,571.

Residents in the YMCA paid a total of $58,502 for rent and other income was from sustaining members, special events, program service fees, commissions and other sources.

Illinois 3rd in product exports, still tops in agricultural shipping

Illinois ranks third among the 50 states as an exporter of manufactured products and first as an exporter of agricultural products, the U.S. Department of Commerce says in a new report on the state's role in U.S. foreign trade.

"Illinois Exports" is one of 50 separate reports in a "State Export Series" the department's International Trade Administration (ITA) published this week, describing U.S. export activity on a state-by-state basis.

"Illinois Exports" covers the state's exports of manufactured and agricultural products, growth in manufactured and farm exports, employment related to exports, exports as a percentage of production, and exports from selected metropolitan areas.

It includes a partial list of state firms that export to foreign countries. The report is based on statistics supplied by the Bureau of the Census and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

In 1976, Illinois manufactured exports totaled $6.66 billion, up 129 percent from 1972.

Major exports of manufactured goods included non-electric machinery, food and kindred products, and electric and electronic equipment.

Agricultural exports for fiscal year 1977 totaled $2,539,000,000 with feed grains, soybeans, protein meal and soybean oil the leading products.

Almost $1 out of every $2 of Illinois farm sales came from exports.

Commenting on the importance of exports to the national economy, Frank A. Well, assistant secretary of Commerce for Industry and Trade, said, "Our new 'State Export Series' points out to producers and workers alike the considerable dependence of each state's economy on exports."

"These in turn depend on U.S. and foreign trade policies that allow goods to be traded without unnecessary encumbrances in world markets."

"Illinois Exports" is available at 90 cents a copy from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. The complete "State Export Series" of 50 reports is available from the same source at $38.75 a set.

For this metropolitan statistical area, and for the state of Illinois, production figures were $18,328,000,000 and $82,351,000,000; exports, $1,191,600,000 and $6,659,800,000; exports as a percent of production, 6.5 and 8.1 percent; estimated employment related to exports, 15,600 and 86,500; and employment related to exports as a percent of the total employment, 6.5 and 6.9 percent.

Boat safety class

The U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary and the SIUE Campus Recreation Office are sponsoring in February and March a six-week public education course on safe boating.

Included in the sessions will be state and federal requirements for boating, boat handling, boaters' language, rules of the road, aids to navigation, and various other subjects for safe ways to boating enjoyment.

The course is approved for requirements of the new Illinois Youth Boating Law, requiring youths from 12 to 18 years old to complete an approved safe boating course in order to operate a motor boat.

Certificates will be awarded by the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary to anyone completing the course.

Sessions, beginning Feb. 7, will be held every Wednesday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the SIUE University Center in the Illinois Room. There will be a $5 charge for the textbook and workbook used in the course. Those interested may call Campus Recreation, 692-2020, or Florence Gillig at 692-2517 (after five, 656-4114).

"The $200,082 raised during the year was $27,986 more than the $172,096 in income during 1977, which also was a year of growth, Grennell reported.

He also pointed out that the YMCA's expenses have exactly matched the income for the past two years, indicating money offered for YMCA services and programs is put to use immediately.

"We have grown in nearly every department, primarily due to Ed Mercer, the physical director," Grennell said. He added the construction of racquetball courts is on schedule and should be done before April 30.

"He noted program director Don Rains has left to work in a similar program in Jacksonville, Ill., and said Rains will be missed, since his work and dedication has played a large part in the recent growth of the "Y."

A new director to replace Rains will be selected in the near future and the screening of applications has begun, he said.

"In my two years here, this has been one of the best staffs I've been involved with in 12 years of YMCA work," he concluded.

Nineteen officers and directors were installed during the meeting, including John "Jack" Lee of the First National Bank in Madison, new YMCA Board president; Dr. Chris Geroff, dentist, first vice-president; John Blasingame, realtor, secretary, and Frank Halvachs, metallurgist at Granite City Steel Resources.

Reappointed board members installed for new terms were the Rev. Don Pierson, minister, Blasingame and Irvin C. Slater, Jr., attorney.

New board members who will serve through 1982 are: Edwin F. Reiske of the Tri-City Trades and Labor Council; Bill Badger, assistant manager of Illinois Power Co.; Jack Hornbuckle, appropriations and control engineer for Granite City Steel; Steve Hunter, administrative assistant to St. Elizabeth Medical Center; Rich Essington of Franklin Life Insurance Co.

Also, Mike Collins, loan officer for Colonial Bank; Julie Oyen, substitute teacher in music; John Fernandez, medical and legal research specialist for St. Louis University; Tom Ross of the Luaders Agency, and Myrle Hall, assistant director of the Retired Seniors Volunteer Program for Belleville Area College.

Lee, assuming his post as the new president, noted the YMCA was constructed in 1924 and has been providing a service to youth and adults since then. "We are totally committed to the Quad-City area," he said.

"I am looking forward to the coming year. I think we can complete a lot of goals set over a period of years. For you board members, I stress work and participation and I charge you with attending board meetings and committee meetings. We have a lot of work to do," Lee stated.

The board members recognized the staff members and congratulated them on a good job during the past year. Staff members, besides Grennell and Mercer are Dora Darnell, bookkeeper, David Cunningham, superintendent, Dennis Pates, receptionist, Becca Miller, secretary, Bill Greely, control centre director, and John Fernandez, swim team coach.

studying are increasing pocket alarm systems, having a silent light flashing outside buildings to alert neighbors so they can call the police, and installing special cash register type alarms.

Two aldermen said prior to the meeting they were going to bring up for discussion the hiring of more policemen, but none of the aldermen mentioned the topic during the council session.

A letter from the Rev. Paul J. Davis praised the work of Robbie Robbins, superintendent of streets, and the street department workers for their efforts in keeping the streets cleared of snow.

The council and Mayor Sasyk agreed the street department is doing and has been doing a "fine job" in fighting the winter snows.

Approval to relocate 65 feet of railroad track at Caine Steel Co., allowing Southwestern Steel the use of the track, was voted. The city will advertise for bids and the work will be paid for by Southwestern Steel.

The council approved purchase of a used crawler tractor for $837 from the Energy Savings Company.

In compliance with Illinois state law, the council approved an annual resolution that, on any public work projects awarded by bid, the workers will be paid the prevailing wage.

The council approved the law firm of Carlson and Froehlich of Chicago to be bonding attorneys for the city's community redevelopment bonds, at a cost of between $5,500 and $7,500.

The First Granite City National Bank and the First National Bank in Madison have given the city letters of intent to purchase the $275,000 in bonds for the business improvement project.

Transfer of $10,000 from the federal revenue sharing account to the recreation and playgrounds account was approved.

The Easter Seal Society was given permission to conduct its drive in Madison on March 23, 24 and 25.

After Cook was rescued, the group organized a team effort, with Mrs. Cook lying on the ice while her husband and Drake held her ankles. Mrs. Cook was able to reach into the open water and recover the unconscious boy.

The child, who is the son of Mrs. Deborah Granger of Tower Lake, had been playing on the ice with a friend, Jon Taylor, age six. Jon ran for help when his companion slipped into the open area where the ducks were swimming.

Observers said the water was more than six feet deep at that point.

Sean was hospitalized two days and then returned home with no lasting ill effects.

armed robbers for possible future identification," Bridick said.

"The Illinois Department of Law Enforcement was notified and assistance sought due to the similarity in the method of operation of armed robberies occurring in Caseyville, Cahokia, Fairmont City and East St. Louis, all within the last two months," Bridick noted.

"We recovered four bullets from a .22 caliber weapon and six casings. We're not sure where the other two projectiles went."

"Detective Paul Bargiel and myself are putting in full time on this. Jim was a personal friend of mine and Paul's and we're both stunned," Bridick said.

Chief Bridick again asked that anyone having any information they may think helpful to contact the Madison Police Department at 876-4300 and talk to Detective Bargiel, himself, or any member of the department.

Chief Bridick said all calls and information will be held in the strictest confidence.

Cranlage, 49, of St. Louis, who was shot during the robbery, was reported in satisfactory condition today in the Intensive Care Unit of St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Retires after 28 years

Granite City Police Patrolman Raymond "Mike" Ridge has resigned after 28 years on the police force to become a liaison man and evidence officer for the Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois (MEGSI).

Ridge joined the police department Nov. 6, 1950, and served in the patrol division until October of 1955 when he was named records clerk.

He was assigned to servicing parking meters in December of 1965 and continued that assignment to his retirement, which was effective last week.

Ridge received 10 letters of commendation during his career, five for perfect or excellent attendance. Schooling included the 30-hour in-service police course, riot school, a University of Illinois seminar on police radio communications, and a course in small arms.

Pending cases among those cleared in GC

The solution of 1,804 Granite City police cases during the 1978 year included 1,093 pending cases in addition to 711 cases that occurred during the year and were cleared during the month in which they occurred, according to a report by Chief of Police Ronald Veizer.

The clearing of 1,804 cases represented a solution of 71.2 percent of the total caseload for the year.

Veizer reported there was a total of 2,532 major crimes in eight categories reported during 1978.

Frank E. Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Reid, 3341 Johnson Road, has been named to the dean's list at Washington University for the fall term. He is a sophomore majoring in mechanical engineering. Reid is a 1977 graduate of Granite City High School.

News notes

Pres. Carter is asking Congress for $20 million to start construction of a new lock and dam south of Alton.

Circuit Clerk-Willard Portell told the County Board finance committee Thursday it is failing to live up to a bargain in rejecting his request for a $3,000 yearly pay hike, from $24,000 to $27,000. He said he was promised a raise after supporting an increase in court fees aiding the county treasury.

Former State Rep. Joe E. Lucco says he is seeking work in the education, business development, transportation or energy fields.

George Knecht, Mrs. Winnie Sasyk, Earl Dolzauer, Leo Schermer and Blasingame.

During the 22nd annual ICAUW meeting, Donovan was applauded for his leadership of the yearly fund campaign and he and his drive vice-chairman, Knecht and Mickey Chesovich, presented a plaque honoring the efforts of the Granite City Steel Labor-Management Torch Club. The club was represented by Stanley Banaszak, Carl Baczenas and Edward F. Boyer.

Winter said the United Way is in sound financial condition and praised "the activities of hundreds of volunteers and the help of many thousands of other residents and employees."

Plan SIU governing change

The Southern Illinois University board said Tuesday afternoon it is committed to changing the present administrative authority at SIUE and SIUC.

An Ad Hoc Committee on Governance for the Southern Illinois University System was appointed Tuesday by Harris Rowe of Jacksonville, chairman of the SIU Board of Trustees, at a special meeting of the board in Springfield following closed discussions.

The committee members, all members of the Board of Trustees, are: William R. Norwood, Elk Grove Village, chairman; Ivan A. Elliott Jr., Carmi; Mrs. Margaret Blackshere, Springfield, formerly of Madison; Stephen Huebs, student trustee from the SIUE campus here; and Kevin K. Wright, student trustee from the Carbondale campus.

Rowe said the board has decided to alter the governance structure, and the committee is charged with reviewing information previously received by the board regarding governance.

He said that an exact outline of the structure will be studied further by the committee and that it is hoped the committee will bring recommendations to the February meeting of the board at SIUE.

Rowe added that the committee will also study options available to the board as evidenced by testimony received by the board at open hearings at SIUE and SIUC in October and November, material supplied by an extensive study made by the board staff, and other research material.

He indicated that the appointment of the committee is another step in the board's continuing assessment of the governance of the SIU system.

Currently, the system is composed of two autonomous campuses, SIU at Carbondale and SIU at Edwardsville, headed by presidents who report to the Board of Trustees.

"The board staff is managed by the general secretary, who also serves as permanent chairman of the System Council, a forum for the presidents to meet to discuss items of mutual interest," he related.

At public hearings on governance following regular board meetings in October and November, the board stated it was particularly interested in opinions on three questions:

- (1) What are the strengths and weaknesses of the present structure?
- (2) What would be the advantages and disadvantages of shifting to a single system, chief executive, responsible directly to the board?
- (3) What values in other possible governance arrangements should the board be aware of?

At the hearing, here, 15 of 18 persons testifying voiced vehement opposition to changing the present structure.

At Carbondale, 10 persons expressed mixed points of view, with four favoring the present system, one urging a single executive system, and five suggesting changes in the present system.

Of the latter group of five, the majority favored more campus autonomy. Two suggested strengthening the board staff, while three wanted the power of the board staff reduced.

highway ramps particularly and on the highways in general. Many cars spun into ditches and calls for tow services ran hours behind.

The rain changed to snow shortly before noon Tuesday as temperatures moderated into the mid-20s and climbed to a high of 33 degrees by Tuesday afternoon.

The temperature began falling about 7 p.m. Tuesday, accompanied by high winds. The mercury fell to a low of 9 degrees above zero by early Wednesday morning, with winds gusting at times to 40 miles per hour.

The cold froze most highway surfaces into a sheet of ice and played havoc with driving conditions Wednesday morning.

Granite City, Venice and Madison public schools closed Wednesday, after dismissing classes early on Tuesday. All parochial schools in the area also closed Wednesday.

While all area schools reopened today, Granite City had no school bus service from Chouteau Island or on Cemetery Road and in the Sand Prairie Lane area.

The National Weather Service said about three inches of snow fell in the area Tuesday and early Wednesday morning.

The low temperatures continued through Wednesday night and early this morning, hitting a low of 8 degrees at 3:30 a.m. today.

Sunny skies and a high in the mid-20s was predicted for today, but freezing rain late tonight and early Friday is predicted by the weather service, which said there also is a chance of snow Friday. Temperatures are expected to be in the low 20s through most of the weekend.

There also is a "good chance" of snow Saturday and Sunday, the forecast said.

Fund sharing have a growing payroll for which I am sure we are not getting full service. Bailey (Lloyd Bailey, alderman of the Fifth Ward) and I visited the treatment plant one Saturday and there were three employees on duty. We have about 32 employees on the payroll at the treatment plant.

"If President Carter continues to decrease the expenditure of funds such as these, we are going to be confronted with picking up the costs of salaries we are now paying with federal revenue sharing. This money should be spent only for capital improvements and not for salaries."

Most other aldermen agreed that capital improvements should get first priority on federal revenue sharing funds, but several of them noted that city finances at the present time made it imperative to approve the budget amendments.

Both budget bills were approved by a vote of 12 to 1, with Douglas casting the only dissenting vote. Alderman Clyde Boyd of the Third Ward was the only alderman absent at Tuesday's meeting.

Whitmer, referring to a list of salary items included in the revenue sharing budget, said:

"If federal revenue sharing funds were cut off today, this city would be dead... so would most cities. There is no doubt about it."

"We are using revenue sharing money where we should not use it (salaries). We should use that money for capital improvements such as the new firehouse we built in Nameoki, the new police station and the new fire pumper. If revenue sharing was halted we'd have to cut back on everything or put a great big tax rate on."

Paul R. Bowler, alderman of Ward Seven and chairman of the finance committee, noted that salaries are only part of the revenue sharing budget.

"We have used revenue sharing money for a lot of capital improvements," he said, listing a number of equipment items and building projects carried out with the federal money.

Alderman Fred "Pat" Schuman said that the finance committee "is well aware of the problem. In fact, Taylor is putting together a program by which we can cut back on salary expenditures from revenue sharing funds over a period of several years."

An autopsy was held, but the autopsy reports will not be available until chemical tests are completed.

The young man who allegedly admitted shooting Mr. LaCicero was released from the Granite City Jail at 1:35 p.m. Tuesday, pending additional investigation and grand jury consideration of the case.

Scouting program 68 years in U.S.

February will mark the 68th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America.

The nation's largest youth organization has been active in the United States for one third of the nation's existence.

The entire month of February will be celebrated nationally and locally with special dinners, events and religious services.

Locally, the Cahokia Mound Council will start the month with a "Scouter's Recognition" dinner, at which volunteer workers in the program will be honored.

The dinner is scheduled Saturday, Feb. 3, in St. Mary's Parish Center, 1615 Tenth St., Madison, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Speakers at the dinner will be Bishop Joseph A. McNicholas, bishop of the Springfield Diocese and long time Scout volunteer leader in the St. Louis area.

William Elliot, an Eagle Scout from Edwardsville, will represent the Cahokia Mound Council at the Illinois Eagle Scout Citizenship

Program Feb. 4 and will participate in a "Report to the Governor."

Nationally, Eagle Scouts will meet in Washington, D.C., with the President of the United States.

Churches throughout the nation will have special services involving Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and Explorers on "Scout Sunday," Feb. 4.

Special church bulletin covers are available to churches for use on Scout Sunday through the local Scout office, 2016 Delmar Ave.

The Scout movement was founded in England by Sir Robert Baden-Powell, later Lord Baden-Powell, in 1908.

Scouting was brought to the United States by a newspaper publisher from Chicago, W. D. Boyce, in 1910.

The BSA was incorporated by the United States Congress in 1916.

Boy Scouting exists today in nearly every free, non-Communist country in the world.

GUEST SPEAKER. The Rev. Keith Talkington, a missionary to Japan, will be the guest speaker Sunday at 7 p.m. at the New City Temple Church, 4751 Maryville Road.

Missionary to speak

The country of Japan in this special missionary service, Rev. Cope said. The public is invited.

The Rev. Keith Talkington, an Assemblies of God missionary to Japan, will be the guest speaker Sunday at 7 p.m. at the New City Temple Church, 4751 Maryville Road, the Rev. A. E. Cope, has announced.

Rev. Talkington worked for seven years with Teen Challenge, a ministry to troubled youth, in Chicago and New York.

He pastored the Assemblies of God Church in Columbia, Ill. for the past two years.

The population of the country of Japan consists of 112 million people living on several densely populated islands. Estimates indicate that less than one percent of the population are professed Christians.

"The country of Japan presents one of the greatest challenges to Christian missions in the world today. It has yet to experience a great outpouring of the Holy Spirit," Rev. Talkington said.

Michael Devine retires

Granite City Police Lt. Michael Devine will retire Feb. 5 from the police department and his retirement was accepted "with regrets" by the Granite City Council Tuesday night.

Devine said in his letter requesting the retirement, "I am proud to have been a member of the Granite City Police Department, which, I believe, is the best in the state."

He has accepted a position as a bailiff with the Third Judicial Circuit Court and is serving in the county courthouse at Edwardsville. Devine has been an officer here since December 1954 and was made a detective in 1955 where he served until being promoted to sergeant in 1967 and returning to the patrol division.

In 1976, he was transferred to the service division, where he was responsible for court scheduling, purchasing and other duties, and in September of 1977, he was promoted to lieutenant and was returned to the patrol division.

He also had major case squad training each year from 1965 through 1969, and in 1973, 1974 and 1977. He was an instructor of a fingerprint school in 1967.

Devine and his wife, Velma, have four children, including a son, Dennis, who is a trooper with District 14 of the Illinois State Police in Macomb.

GOP Presidential hopeful Philip M. Crane (R-Ill.) has named area resident Gary Mittendorf to serve on the Crane for Presidential national advisory board and to "take a leading role in the campaign both on the state and national levels." More than 1,300 political leaders from throughout the nation were announced in a series of three regional meetings last week.

Crane, his presidential announcement the earliest in history, has raised more than $650,000 from the 50 states and taken his "early bird" campaign to 37 states since his announcement Aug. 2, 1978. Mittendorf, employed at A.O. Smith Corp. in Granite City, as labor relations representative, had been active in Lieutenant Governor William Phelps' re-election campaign and Senator John Danforth's successful campaign in Missouri.

Aid offered those who seek assessment cuts

Campaigns to aid Nameoki and Chouteau Township residents in filing applications for cutbacks in the valuations of residential property on which assessments have been increased through use of multiplying factors are under way in the two townships.

While applications are not being directed in those two localities to the township assessor, application forms are being prepared and mailed to James J. Barton, supervisor of assessments at the Madison County courthouse in Edwardsville.

Application forms, including those published in the Press-Record, are being sent directly to the assessors in Granite City and Venice Townships as well as to the county assessment office.

Walter "Dick" Sparks, supervisor of Chouteau Township, said yesterday that application forms have been prepared and are available to Chouteau residents at the Chouteau Town Hall, 697 North Thorngate Drive.

He said these forms may be mailed to Barton's office. He said homeowners eligible for the reduction in home property values may obtain their parcel numbers, which are required information on the forms, from a previous tax bill.

In Nameoki township a group of volunteers is making a door-to-door canvass to acquaint residents with the procedure necessary to obtain the valuation cut.

Mrs. Helen Hawkins, precinct committeeman of Nameoki Precinct Five, said she has obtained 3,000 application forms and that she and seven volunteer workers are calling at homes in all parts of the township to aid residents in filing for the cutbacks.

Feb. 15 is the deadline for filing the forms.

Under the law, homeowners who receive increased assessments may ask for a cutback in the amount of the increase, up to a maximum of $1,500.

The $1,500 allotment for each homeowner reduction will be good for a four-year period, including the 1978 tax year.

As an example, if a homeowner receives a $500 increase in valuation over that of last year, he may file for a cutback of $500 and the remainder of the $1,500 would remain as a balance for further cutbacks over the next three years.

The homeowner may, however, claim all of the $1,500 in the one year, if he prefers.

Plan rules to assure quality hospice care

Dr. Paul Q. Peterson, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, has announced that the Health Facilities Planning Board is in the process of developing rules and regulations governing the quality of care provided to patients in hospice programs.

He also announced a series of educational symposiums to plan acceptable hospice care. The series will be conducted by the state health department throughout the state in the near future.

Dr. Peterson noted that the term "hospice" is derived from a medieval word for a place of shelter for weary travelers on difficult journeys.

The first modern-day hospice — a place where the terminally ill are helped to "round out their lives with dignity and meaning" — was established in England in 1867.

Dr. Peterson said the hospice concept has been "gaining in popularity in the United States."

"Many hospice programs are currently in operation, and many more are being developed."

Betty Walston, R.N., chief of the state health department's Division of Curriculum Development and Training, has completed an intensive study of the hospice movement in the U.S. and England.

She explained that the purpose of the hospice is not only to give expert physical nursing care to terminal patients, but also to help them "find refreshment and renewal in ending the journey of life on earth in an environment of love — which, incidentally, is almost always at home — with caring persons."

She added that, while the movement brings with it the possibility of pain control, family involvement and home care for the dying, there is a real possibility of hospice programs becoming "fads."

She cautioned that they might enjoy just a fleeting popularity that is soon lost to newer interests. "Death and dying are too important for us to allow this to happen," she said.

She and Dr. Obert Lay, of Granite City, will represent the state health department on the Health Facilities Planning Board.

Both attended the National Hospice Organization Conference in Washington, D.C., where national guidelines for hospice care were announced.

Nameoki OKs loan

The Nameoki Town Board of Trustees Monday night authorized Highway Commissioner Frank Mehelic to sell $30,000 in tax anticipation warrants to meet anticipated shortages in the highway department accounts.

"I do not think we will need the entire $30,000, but I want to have some as an extra precaution. We can always use any surplus to repay part of the loan when taxes arrive," Mehelic said.

At Monday night's meeting, the board approved payment of special hard road fund bills totaling $17,000 and road and bridge bills of $3,852.

Other bills approved totaled $5,846 in the town fund, $1,887 in general $6,900 is due and we will have to make a $4,100 payment on a new truck. Payroll is running $2,100 to $2,200 a week.

"We are OK on materials and supplies but we have over $10,000 in bills due and will need additional funds to meet them."

"Our insurance bill of assistance and $11,850 in federal revenue sharing.

They also approved $706 in annual dues to the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission (SWIMARPC), an increase of one cent per capita from last year.

The trustees discussed the recent annexation by Granite City of a 427-acre tract for industrial for industrial development, part of which was in Nameoki Township, and Attorney Irvin C. Slate Jr. advised that the township has one year in which to file a lawsuit challenging the annexation. The suit can either be filed by the township or by a number of townships and taxing agencies, Slate said.

Mrs. Linette Maedge, former director of the gifted programs in Edwardsville, gave an audience of 71 adults, while 51 gifted children participated in creative writing activities, under the direction of Mrs. Judy Deterding, learning center teacher at Frohardt School, and Mrs. Merna Musterman, gifted program coordinator.

Thirteen elementary schools also were represented at the meeting. Mrs. Phyllis Ryan, president of the group conducted a short business meeting highlighted by a report on legislation relative to gifted education funding given by Edward Gonwa, principal of Lake School.

The next meeting is scheduled Monday, March 26, at Parkview School.

Those interested in gifted children are welcome to attend, according to Mrs. Ryan.

Rites held for David Johnston

Funeral services were held this morning at Our Lady of Assumption Church, Fairview Heights for David J. Johnston, 68, of Belleville, who died Monday at Memorial Hospital, Belleville.

Mr. Johnston, who began his career as city engineer at East St. Louis and later established his own engineering firm, was the engineer for installation of the Nameoki area sewer system in the early 1960s.

He leaves his wife, two daughters, three sons, a sister and five grandchildren.

6 in GC park race

Six candidates have filed nominating petitions as candidates for two commissioner seats on the Granite City Park Board, subject to election in April 17 balloting.

In Venice, three candidates are in the race for one full six-year park commissioner term, while incumbent Park Board member, the Rev. John W. Ratcliff, 410 Lincoln Ave., is the only candidate for an unexpired four-year term on the Venice Park Board.

Filing in both the Venice and Granite City park elections ended Monday afternoon. Saturday will be the last day for any of the candidates to withdraw from the elections if they wish to do so.

While the Granite City park election is scheduled April 17, at the same time municipal elections are held in Madison, Venice and Pontoon Beach, the election of Venice Park Board members will be held April 3, the date of the Granite City municipal elections.

The reversal of localities in conducting the park elections has been the practice of the two park districts for several years in an effort to prevent municipal elections from detracting attention from the Park Board voting.

Robert "Bob" Patrick, incumbent member of the Granite City Park Board, filed as a candidate for re-election, but Jake Hinterser, the other incumbent board member whose term expires this year, did not seek re-election. Hinterser presently is president of the Granite City Park Board. Patrick, who lives at 1617 Pontoon Road, is seeking his second six-year term.

Other candidates in the Granite City park district election include Joseph H. Mitchell, 2302 Benton Ave., an employee of Granite City Steel; Jack E. Hood, 2809 Madison Ave., an insurance agent; Dr. Richard C. Reinhardt, a chiropractor of 2861 Madison Ave.; Henry Bieniecki, 3317 Harvard Drive, an engineer at McDonnell-Douglas; and David J. Nolan, 4000 Sara St., an employee of the Granite City engineering department.

Calvin Ratliff of Venice whose regular six-year term expires this year did not file for re-election, but three candidates are seeking that office.

The include Barbara Harrell, 624 Washington Ave.; George Tysus Jr., Apt. B, 1217 Market St., and Enrique E. Lopez, 117 Weber St.

The Rev. John Ratcliff who has been serving as a park commissioner by appointment, was the only candidate to file for the remaining four years of that office, which is tantamount to election. Rev. Ratcliff was appointed to the vacancy created when Pete Ponce moved out of Venice.

Mrs. Mary Smith, 85, dies

Mrs. Mary T. (Goodrich) Smith, 85, a native of Venice, died at 7 p.m. Tuesday at The Colonades.

She had been a resident of the nursing facility since June 1975.

Mrs. Smith was born and reared in Venice, but had lived for many years in Stanberry, Mo., prior to returning to this area a few years ago.

Teen anti-smoking project

Determining ways in which to deal with peer pressure and the extent of parental influence in helping to combat the problem of teenage smoking is the thrust of an anti-smoking program involving about 400 metropolitan area sixth and seventh graders. The objective is to create a positive attitude toward non-smoking in the critical adolescent years.

Sponsored by the Department of Community Medicine, St. Louis University School of Medicine, the project, "Toward a Smokeless Generation," is being funded by a grant from the National Interagency Council on Smoking and Health and will be designed by the participating students to the extent possible. Chief investigators are Jerome Cohen, M.D., associate professor of internal medicine, who as a physician and cardiologist works on many projects aimed toward prevention of heart disease; and Rodney M. Coe, Ph.D., professor of community medicine, who is active in research on the social and behavioral agents of health and illness.

"In addition to helping the youngsters learn to handle peer pressure, which is perhaps the most powerful influence for this age group, there will be combined meetings with students and parents or teachers on the subject of parental influence. "Another aspect of the program will deal with how the tobacco industry is promoting cigarette sales to youth," said Dr. Cohen, whose investigations show it to be extremely easy for young persons to obtain cigarettes. About 15 percent of the 12-17-year-olds in the U.S. are smoking on a regular basis, he added.

Freshman medical students will serve as consultants and catalysts in helping the students to achieve a positive attitude toward non-smoking. Prizes or other forms of reducing will be given to the classes most successfully reducing the number of students who smoke or minimizing the number who begin to smoke. The proposal was one of 47 applications from all areas of the United States and is one of five which was funded.

College formula — 'burden to students and taxpayers'

James Furman, executive director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education, has called for a complete study of the community college funding formula in 1979.

The formula, described by Governor Thompson as one of six major problems facing higher education, has been called "inadequate and in need of a complete revamping" by Illinois Community College Board Chairman Hugh Hammerslag of Rockford.

Although the Illinois Board of Higher Education has approved a recommendation of $135.4 million for the state's community colleges for the 1979-80 fiscal year, Hammerslag points out that state dollars per student over the past five years have increased seven percent while the Consumer Price Index has risen 44 percent.

The recommended appropriation shows an increase, but it would only partly allow the colleges to catch up with the damaging effects of inflation felt during the past few years, Hammerslag said. He criticized the current funding formula as having "placed a heavy burden on students and local taxpayers" to make up the gap between increasing costs and the level of state aid per student in recent years.

Although senior university students did not have an increase in tuition last year, more than half of the state's community college students had tuition increases averaging 18 percent.

Several community college districts held referenda to increase local tax support. Voters in Waubesa's district and in the Prairie State district approved these referenda, while Sauk Valley, William Rainey Harper, and College of Lake County rejected the attempts.

Community colleges are funded by a combination of state and local support and student tuition. Many community college districts have more than doubled tuition in the 14 years since the Illinois Junior College act was passed in 1965.

Belleville Area College's 1967 tuition was $7, compared to the present $13. Lewis and Clark, Godfrey, which started in 1960, had a $10 per credit tuition compared to the present $12. Both State Community College (East St. Louis) and Rend Lake, begun in 1969 and 1967, respectively, originally had no tuition charge. State's tuition is now $5 and Rend Lake's is $11 per credit hour.

Kaskaskia, established in 1966, had an original $2 per credit hour tuition. Presently, Kaskaskia's tuition is $8 per credit hour.

Consumers recover $3 million

Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott has announced that his division of Consumer Fraud and Protection recovered almost $3 million for Illinois consumers in 1978.

Scott said a year-end summary of complaints handled by his office showed that his consumer division received 26,010 complaints, 21,588 in the Chicago-area offices and 6,427 in downstate offices.

In handling those complaints, the attorney general recovered $2,839,822 for Illinois consumers.

Scott said Chicago-area consumer complaints received by that office.

In a breakdown of these complaints, the largest was the area of service and repair. Next largest category was automobile sales.

These categories were followed by accessories, billing, delivery and installation, warranty, odometers, title, advertising, leasing, gas and oil companies and miscellaneous.

Following automobiles, the businesses most complained about in the Chicago area in 1978 were construction and contractors. Ten percent of the complaints fell in this category and tended to be in home improvement and repairs, such as roofing.

Seven percent of the Chicago area consumer complaints were about mail order problems, six percent about real estate (particularly in the area of apartment listing services), five percent about heating and air condition, four percent furniture and draperies, three percent publications, two percent credit, two percent television, two percent travel and lodging and 33 percent in 31 remaining categories.

Attorney General Scott commented that his first interest in dealing with consumer problems is to protect the people of the state against consumer fraud, but that — by exposing fraudulent businessmen — his office is also assisting legitimate businesses.

Consumers who want help from the attorney general's office may direct their complaints to either the Consumer Fraud and Protection Division at 228 N. LaSalle, Room 1242, Chicago 60601, or 500 S. Second St., Springfield, 62706.

Or they may phone those offices at (312) 793-3580 in Chicago or (217) 782-6060 in Springfield to ask for the location of the Attorney General's Consumer Fraud Office nearest them.

Revision sought in garbage contract

A revision of the contract between Granite City and the Milam-East Division of SCA Services, which handles the city's garbage collections, is being sought by the company which says it has financial problems because of hauling sludge from the sewage treatment plant to a landfill.

The firm, which received the city contract for garbage pickups in July 1977 after it offered to haul the sludge from the treatment plant at a time when it was impractical to incinerate the waste, has informed the City Council that the extra hauling was supposed to be for a short term of several months, but that it has continued.

Kenneth Hartbarger, who represents SCA Services in the Illinois area, told council members that the 1977 contract figure was based on city assurances that hauling treatment plant sludge would be for a period of only a few months.

There has been no letup in the volume of hauling, he said, noting that the firm is suffering "financial strain from handling the sludge without compensation."

Hartbarger asked that arrangements be made for a meeting with city officials to discuss the matter.

Council members referred the issue to its Sanitation Committee and City Attorney Lance Callis.

While the treatment plant was equipped with incinerators to burn sludge left after the treatment of raw sewage, the practice was discontinued because the cost of fuel oil for the burning process was excessive.

The Milam-East contract for a three-year period at a cost of $398,000 for the first year. Five percent increases in the total cost were provided for the 1978-79 year and the 1979-80 year.

This would make the garbage contract cost $417,900 for the current year and $438,795 for the 1979-80 year, a total of $1.2 million for the three-year contract.

He was a graduate of DePauw University at Greencastle, Ind., and the University of Wisconsin's Comproller School.

Mr. Daum had lived in Springfield for 14 years. Prior to that time, he resided in Granite City and Edwardsville, where he was born.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Eileen (Gauen) Daum; one son, John J. Daum, at home; his mother, Mrs. Clara Knott of Edwardsville; and one brother, Edwin Daum of Amarillo, Tex.

Smith won't run for BAC board

Robert Dintelmann will run for reelection to the Belleville Area College board, but Milton Smith will not.

Smith explained to the board Thursday night that the pressures of his employment have increased and that he feels his six years on the board have given him an insight into the operation of the college that would be beneficial to someone else.

"I don't think people are always aware of how good an institution the college is," Smith said.

"When more people are involved with the operation of the school, more of our citizens will become acquainted with what we are doing."

An election for the two seats will be held on Saturday, April 14. BAC board members serve three-year terms.

Nominating petitions may be filed between Feb. 28 and March 23 with Ruth M. Kombrink, secretary to the Board of Trustees, in her office in Room 1241 on the main campus of Belleville Area College, 2500 Caryville Road.

Hours for the filing of petitions are 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. Petitions are available from Mrs. Kombrink.

In other business during the meeting, the Board voted to accept a settlement of $448,000 (less $1,000 deductible) for damage done to BAC airplanes and equipment lost in an Aug. 9 fire at Bi-State Parks Airport, Cahokia.

Vice-President for Administrative Services

James Hines reported that the insurance company had already paid $100,000 to the college, and that on receipt of the board's acceptance of the total settlement, the other $347,000 would be sent.

The Career Guidance Center for Region 15 received continued funding. The $61,600 grant includes an unexpended balance of $13,600 from the 1977-78 fiscal year which the college was allowed to carry over.

Dr. Conrad Dean has resigned as Belleville Area College's Mascoutah coordinator. He was replaced by Clyde Brasher, director of counseling at Mascoutah High School.

The college operates 22 extension centers throughout its 2,100-square-mile district, each of which is under the supervision of a local coordinator-consultant. The Granite City center is the largest.

The 1978-80 academic calendar was approved in board action. The fall semester for 1979 will begin with faculty orientation Aug. 13 through 17.

Final exams for the fall semester will end Dec. 13. Spring semester of 1980 begins with faculty orientation Jan. 7 through 11 and ends with graduation on May 18.

Generic vs. brand drugs

A penny saved in the use of a generic drug, may really be several pennies lost in the drug's effectiveness, in the opinion of Bonnie Kitowski, SUE pharmacist. "Some generic drugs (drugs listed by their chemical names) that still meet standards are not as strong as brand-name drugs," she says.

Although the consumer may be saving money by using a generic drug, the person may not be receiving the same effectiveness as he or she would from a higher-priced brand name drug, she contends.

Consumer savings in the use of generic drugs are also passed along to pharmacies as profits, according to Miss Kitowski. She alleges there is a 150 percent markup on generic drugs compared to a 30 percent markup on brand name drugs.

"Not all generic drugs are bad," the pharmacist said, "but on the whole, I prefer to take brand name drugs. I wouldn't take them, so I don't want to dispense them."

The generic drug issue will be discussed in a seminar sponsored by SUE's Health Service (682-2442) on Wednesday, Jan. 31. Two sessions are open to the university community and will be held in the Illinois Room of the University Center—Session I from 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and Session II from 1:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Leonard Naeger, professor of pharmacology at the St. Louis College of Pharmacy, will discuss generic drugs—their use vs. brand name drugs, how they are absorbed in the bloodstream, and federal regulations regarding generic drugs.

Seminar sessions are limited to 30 people and registration is needed by Jan. 30.

Woman falls into manhole, injured

Constance Kipp, 2745 Ralph St., was injured when a manhole cover slipped under her feet and allowed her to fall completely in a manhole at 21st Street and Madison Avenue at 1 p.m. Monday.

She said she climbed out and went to a nearby physician's office where she was examined and was sent to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for X-rays and treatment of bruises, bumps and scratches. X-rays showed no broken bones and she was released.

45-day jail term ordered

Brian Clifford Cunningham, 18, of 1634 Second St., Madison, has been sentenced in Madison County Circuit Court to serve 45 days in the Madison County Jail and one year of probation after pleading guilty to burglary.

He allegedly was among four youths who burglarized Ben's Bicycle Shop, 1834 State St., Nov. 19, taking bicycle parts. The other three faced juvenile charges in connection with the incident.

Cunningham was sentenced by Circuit Judge Horace Calvo.

AGENCY FOR SCOTT RETIRED PERSONNEL

About 4,500 retired military people now have a point of contact with Scott Air Force Base. An agency named BRAVO, an acronym for Base Retiree Affairs Volunteer Office, has opened in the Consolidated Base Personnel Office, Bldg. 10.

Also, a retiree affairs council has been formed to help military retirees understand, and take advantage of, current Air Force policies, procedures and programs that affect the. Operated by volunteers, BRAVO is open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesdays and will extend the office hours when participation grows.

GC ambulance bills $239,074 in 1978

The Granite City Ambulance Service billed a total of $239,074 in fees for ambulance calls during 1978, and collected $158,717, or 66.3 percent, of the amount, according to a report released by the City Council's Ambulance Committee. The committee, headed by Alderman Gerald Parmley of the Sixth Ward, said the city had unpaid ambulance service bills of $80,357 at the end of the year, but that $14,653 of this, representing the unpaid portion of bills sent to Illinois Public Aid, was written off.

Parmley said the state public aid division will pay only a fixed amount for such purposes, and there is no way to collect the balance. The total billing for ambulance service calls sent to Illinois Public Aid during the 1978 year amounted to $40,179, the report said.

The Ambulance Service also billed $52,140 for fees to Medicare, and another $15,957 in service call bills was sent to Medicare through Illinois Public Aid.

In addition, the report noted, the city service turned over $57,678 in unpaid bills to the AAA Credit Service for collection. As a result, $13,781 of that amount was collected by the credit service, of which $7,608 was received by the city as its share under the commission agreement.

Parmley said the unpaid bills turned over to the collection agency represented bills "the city would be unable to collect."

TRUCK TARPS TAKEN

Bob Allen, Roseburg, Ore., reported at 8:25 a.m. Saturday that three tarpaulins with a total value of $1,050 were stolen from his tractor-trailer unit during the night while it was parked at Niedringhaus Avenue and Adams Street. He said the truck and tarps were owned by the Sammon Trucking Co., St. Louis.

Meet to decide on city treatment plant repairs

A special meeting of the Granite City Council has been called for 7 p.m. Monday, Jan. 29, to consider recommendations for repairs to malfunctioning equipment at the city's secondary sewage treatment plant.

The meeting call was issued during a regular City Council session Tuesday night in which Mayor Paul Schuler informed the aldermen that an engineering report pinpointing problems at the plant has been completed.

"We need to resolve this matter as quickly as possible," the mayor said. The report, prepared by Sverdrup & Paul Associates, Inc., St. Louis engineering and planning firm, lists 13 specific problems in equipment and operational procedure which have prevented approval of the plant by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency and its acceptance by the city. These factors have delayed payment of from $400,000 to $450,000 in federal grant funds due the city for construction of the secondary sewage facilities which was completed early in 1976.

The engineering report estimates costs for resolving the 13 principal plant problems at $165,250, the largest of which is modification of final clarifier traveling bridge supports and repair of a crack in the return sludge trough at a cost of $105,000.

Granite City has held up a final payment of $51,000 to the contractor, G. L. Tarlton Contracting Co. of St. Louis, who built the secondary facilities, as part of a move to fix responsibility for unacceptable phases of the plant construction.

The city has filed a suit in federal court at Alton against the Tarlton firm's bond pending the fixing of responsibility for the problems at the treatment plant. City officials said the Sverdrup & Paul report should help in establishing such responsibility.

"Since the expansion of the Granite City sewage treatment plant to a secondary level of treatment, a number of problems have been experienced with the new equipment. Some of these problems have been corrected."

"Most of the problems discussed in this report are the result of design as performed by the engineer, or equipment provided by various manufacturers. In some cases where a reasonable and economical solution could not be found, and treatment plant personnel have learned to cope with the problem, no corrective action is recommended."

"The significant problems involve the plant monitor, the variable speed raw water pump, the new primary clarifiers, the aeration basin dissolved oxygen monitoring and control system, and the final clarifier traveling bridges."

"These systems are important to the operation of the plant and the recommended repairs should be made as soon as possible. An exception is the new primary clarifiers which, because of the low plant flow rates currently experienced, do not require immediate repairs."

"The repeated failures of the final clarifiers traveling bridges contributed significantly to the poor quality effluent in 1977 and early 1978. Other factors were the limited practical experience of operating personnel, the absence due to illness of the plant superintendent, and the severe winter. After most of the bridge problems were corrected and the bridges were again operable, effluent quality has met specifications."

"Another problem which as yet is not well defined, is that of the sludge heat treatment and incineration systems. This report recommends periodic operation of the equipment with close monitoring of operating parameters so that potential problems can be determined."

"The number of problems experienced by the plant is not considered to be abnormal for a plant as complex as the Granite City facility. It is believed that the plant is fully capable of providing the required effluent quality."

"It is recommended that the services of a sanitary engineer familiar with the treatment plant processes be obtained to serve as plant superintendent. If such a person cannot be obtained, consideration can be given to hiring an experienced engineer as a consultant to plant personnel."

"Of all the problems affecting the plant, those concerning the final clarifier sludge removal bridges are the most serious because of their direct impact on effluent water quality."

"It is believed that with the exception of the raw water pump, all of the problems affecting the bridges have been resolved and currently both bridges are operable. The problem with the rail supports remains, however, and should be corrected while the plant flow rate is low and operation of only one clarifier is needed."

"Another problem which is not well defined as yet is that of the sludge heat treatment and incineration systems. Reports of early operation of the equipment indicate unsatisfactory results. The testing performed by Envirotech indicates that the system will not function properly unless the characteristics of the primary sludge change."

"This report recommends periodic operation of the system with close monitoring of pertinent parameters, and a survey of other plants using the Envirotech system, to determine if the systems will perform adequately when it is needed."

"Although a detailed design analysis has not been performed, rough calculations indicate that the treatment plant is fully capable of providing the required effluent quality. Indeed, since May 1978, with resolution of most of the final clarifier traveling bridge problems and ignoring the faulty laboratory test results of June, 1978, the plant has met all of its NPDES requirements."

"Most of the problems discussed in this report are due to design and can be attributed to MW, Inc., which had overall design responsibility, and/or to some of the various manufacturers that supplied equipment for the plant. These manufacturers are Autocore who supplied the variable speed raw waste pump, FMC who supplied most of the final clarifier equipment and Envirotech who supplied the sludge heat treatment and incineration system."

"All of the treatment plants of the sophistication of the Granite City plant with which we are familiar have available to them the services of an engineer who has both technical and theoretical knowledge of the treatment plant processes."

"It is recommended that the treatment plant superintendent, who serves preferably by hiring an experienced sanitary engineer as superintendent, or alternately engaging a consultant."

"The following is a summary of the repairs or modifications recommended in this report and the associated costs. The costs are in terms of November 1978 dollars and include contractor overhead and profit."

"It is recognized that some of the repairs can be done by treatment plant personnel at a lower cost. The items are listed in order of relative importance."

"a. Modification of final clarifier traveling bridge supports and repair of crack in return sludge trough, $105,000.

"b. Relocation of troughs in new Treatment Reactor by shimming and grouting, $3,200.

"c. Installation of check valve at discharge of variable speed raw water pump, etc., $6,200.

"d. Installation of interposing relays for plant monitor, $750 per relay.

"e. Relocation of troughs in new primary clarifiers, $11,900.

"f. Installation of properly sized rotometer in chlorinator, $1,750.

"g. Installation of slot level delay relay in service water supply controls, $2,800.

"h. Installation of trough in floor of vacuum filter building, $18,200.

"i. Correction of slot level in final clarifier scum pipes, $2,200.

"j. Installation of heat tracing and insulation on filtered sludge conveyor, $1,400.

"k. Installation of isolating valves for storm water sludge pumps, $3,900.

"l. Installation of level detectors in primary clarifier scum pits, $3,100.

"m. Installation of separate heat traced and insulated piping for primary sludge pumps, $4,100.

Man, boy, 16, arrested in disturbance

Doyle Miller Sr., 44, Hartford, was charged with aggravated assault and a 16-year-old Kirkpatrick Homes boy was charged with disorderly conduct after a disturbance at the apartment of David Pollard, 106 Kirkpatrick Homes, at 5:25 p.m. Wednesday.

Police were told three persons were causing a disturbance in front of Pollard's apartment, and were trying to kick the door open and knives were being shown.

When police arrived, they were told the three involved had left west on Edwards Street in a blue car. Patrolman Jerry Wilson was in the car.

Pollard was taken to a report on the disturbance and moments later there was a shouting on the back door, Wilson reported.

When the beating on the door continued, Wilson drew his service revolver and opened the door to find Miller in the doorway with a knife in his hand and his arm extended as though about to slash whoever opened the door, Wilson alleged.

Miller and another man with him were ordered to put their hands on their heads, enter the apartment and surrender any weapons. Miller put the knife on a table and was handcuffed and arrested.

The second man was questioned and released. Police were called back to Pollard's apartment a few minutes later and found the 16-year-old there, with a group of friends. Pollard alleged the youth was the third man who was at his apartment earlier and police took him into custody. He was released on a notice to appear before juvenile authorities.

Pollard signed a complaint against Miller alleging aggravated assault, and against the juvenile alleging disorderly conduct.

Steel shipments most in history

Record steel shipments, aided by record iron production from the "A" Blast Furnace and near-record tonnage from the Basic Oxygen Furnace (BOF) shop, headed a list of 22 annual records that were chalked up at Granite City Steel during 1978.

The local division of National Steel Corporation shipped 2,133,000 tons of steel beating the former record of 2,051,000 tons shipped in 1973.

GC Steel merged with National Steel in 1971. BOF output approached the 1976 record of 1,921,000 tons but fell slightly short at 1,914,000 tons as 1978 ended.

However, fewer operating days were available in 1978, and the BOF was able to set new records in daily tonnage and tons per hour.

It requires a steady supply of molten iron to keep a BOF in operation, and molten iron is produced in the blast furnaces. In 1978, "A" Blast Furnace crews cast 811,000 tons of iron, topping the 1976 record of 799,500 tons. They also set a daily record.

"Another key unit set a significant record in 1978," a spokesman commented.

"The 80-Inch Hot Strip Mill beat its 1973 high of 2,156,000 tons by rolling 2,225,500 tons of coils.

"The oldest record to fall in 1978 at GC Steel was the Cold Mill's rate of production, in which crews topped the 1966 record.

Galvanized steel sheets and coils make up an important product line for Granite City Steel, and total galvanizing tonnage was a record 350,000 tons. The easily topped the 1974 high of 318,000 tons.

Numerous other production and shipping records were also broken.

Job emphasis urged

Concerted efforts to reverse the job trend in Madison County was urged Tuesday in a talk to Granite City Rotarians by Mike Boer, development program manager.

Boer is on the staff of the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission serving this county and Bond, Clinton, Randolph, Metropolis, Monroe and St. Clair. Rotary President Drew Karandjef presided and Robert Maxwell was program chairman.

In the last ten years, the seven-county region has lost 20,000 manufacturing jobs, including a 13,000 decrease in Madison County, from 41,000 to 28,000, Boer said.

News notes

Consumer prices rose nine percent in 1978, the second biggest climb in three decades.

Republicans decided Tuesday to hold their 1980 national convention in Detroit.

A bright "unidentified flying object" observed Tuesday night may have been the planet Venus.

Former Texas Governor Jesse B. Connally said Wednesday he is seeking the 1980 Republican presidential nomination.

Many legislators and groups say they will fight proposed reduction of Social Security benefits.

Tractor caravans of farmers bound for Washington, D.C., to protest farm and inflation policies passed through St. Louis Tuesday and arrived in Greenville that night.

The Environmental Control Committee of the Madison County Board apologized Tuesday to the Illinois attorney general for assailing him on a Union Electric Missouri plant's pollution of Illinois air. The notes praise him and are displeased with the state's Environmental Protection Agency.

Illinois Gov. James Thompson repeated Wednesday that he won't run for president in 1980.

Madison County Sheriff Emil Toffant told the Press-Record today that he plans to implement a program assigning squad cars full-time to the five members of the department's Mobile Reserve Squad, a tactical unit with flexible hours designed to concentrate police coverage on specific problems.

Close to 300 residents of Granite City's Seventh Ward packed the Nameoki Recreation Center last night for a special meeting called by Alderman Paul R. Bowler to discuss the assessment cutback available to property owners who live in single-family residences.

34 million favor short tax form

Taxpayers filed almost 34 million Form 1040A Federal income tax returns in 1978. The Internal Revenue Service expects even more to be filed this year, so it has supplied the following questions and answers about the Form 1040A to help you decide whether you, too, should change to the shorter form.

Q. Last year I filed a Form 1040, but this year I would like to file a Form 1040A. Is it okay to change?

A. It is, if the Form 1040A suits your tax situation.

Generally, if the total of your itemized deductions is equal to or less than your zero bracket amount, you'll be better off filing a Form 1040A.

The zero bracket amount for married persons who file jointly is $3,200; for single persons, it's $2,200; and for married persons who file separately, the zero bracket amount is $1,600.

If your itemized deductions are greater than the zero bracket amount, you should stick with the Form 1040.

IRS encourages taxpayers to make a "ballpark" comparison before they do all the work required by the Form 1040. If the 1040A is the form-for you, don't hesitate to use it.

Q. Are there any other factors to consider when deciding on which form I should use?

A. Yes, but they're basic. Assuming you've decided not to itemize, your income must be $40,000 or less if you're married and filing a joint return; $20,000 or less if you're single or married and filing separately.

Whatever the amount of income and filing status, the income must all have come from wages, salaries and tips, with not more than $400 in interest or dividends.

Q. What are the advantages of using the Form 1040A?

A. It's easier, for one thing. There are no Schedules to complete or attach — just the Forms W-2 (Wage Statements).

The entire form is printed on one side of a page so there's no need to flip back and forth.

Calculations start at the top of the page and move step-by-step to the bottom, so the 1040A also takes less time to complete than the Form 1040.

Q. Isn't there some way to get around doing all the math?

A. There certainly is. Let the IRS compute the tax.

Just complete the form to the line that says: "If you want the IRS to figure your tax, stop here and sign below."

Then sign the form, date it, and mail it to the IRS by April 16, 1979. That's all there is to it.

IRS will figure the tax in the way that's most beneficial to you, including the Earned Income Credit if you qualify. Then it will send you a refund or a bill, as appropriate.

Q. Where do I get the Form?

A. If you filed a Form 1040A last year, IRS will automatically send you another.

If you didn't receive a tax package in the mail or if you filed a Form 1040 last year, you can get your Form 1040A from any IRS office, in any Postal Service station, or at many banks.

3 will speak on roads to success in reading

Mrs. Ruth D. Lahr, director of Title I, Elementary and Secondary Education Act, Granite City schools, will serve as a participant at the second annual Title I Right-to-Read Conference to be held at SIU at Carbondale on Feb. 6-7.

Due to her many years of experience with Title I, she has been asked to serve with two other people on a discussion panel. The topic will include parental involvement and in-service training for Title I programs.

There will be 72 presentations during the conference, and approximately 800 exhibits of different teaching ideas will be on display.

Robert Hardy, state director of Title I, will participate in a roundtable discussion on Feb. 7 concerning changes in Title I guidelines.

Larry Williams, mathematics teacher at Prather Junior High, and Ron Simpson, teacher of the Title I reading program of Prather, have been chosen as presenters at the right-to-read conference.

The meeting is sponsored by the Illinois State Board of Education. A total of $91 in cash was missing.

three staff members of the Granite City School District were selected because of their record as successful teachers in this field.

Williams' presentation will include a demonstration of relaxation and guided imagery techniques. Participants will experience gestalt, bioenergetic, and centering exercises designed to "release the flow of creative energies inherent in all human beings."

Simpson's part on the program will include an overview of the Prather Title I remedial reading program. Techniques and materials to challenge the junior high school age reader will be discussed. The recreational reading program at Prather also will be examined, and ideas for implementation of an independent reading program will be presented.

BURGLAR TAKES CASH All rooms, cabinets and drawers were ransacked at the home of Lee Davis, 2721 Sunset Drive, in a burglary reported this week. An inventory was being taken to determine what items were stolen. A total of $91 in cash was missing.

MR. AND MRS. JIMMY HANCOCK.

Before their marriage at Calvary Pentecostal Assembly Church, the bride was Miss Kathy Hutchins.

Kathy Hutchins wed to Jimmy Hancock

Miss Kathy Hutchins, a daughter of Mr. LeRoy Hutchins and the late Mirie Hutchins, was married to Jimmy D. Hancock, a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hancock, Nov. 24 in a candlelight ceremony at Calvary Pentecostal Assembly Church.

The Rev. Harold Maynard and the Rev. Turrent officiated at the double ring ceremony at 7 o'clock before an altar decorated with two branched candelabras in shades of pink.

Organist Mrs. Roger Miller played and Miss Carol Maynard sang, "Love Theme," "We've Only Just Begun," "Together Life's Pathway We've Trod" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride was escorted down the white carpeted aisle by her father. She selected a formal-length white organza A-line style gown, fashioned with an Empire bodice trimmed in Cluny lace, seed pearls and Venice lace motifs, with a train of white tulle.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Hancock, was seated in the church fellowship hall. Miss Charlene Hutchins, niece of the bride, attended the guest book.

The bride is a graduate of Granite City High School South, and is an active member of the church.

The groom graduated from East Alton High School and is employed at Laclede Steel Co. in Alton.

After a wedding trip to Florida, they are residing in Granite City.

sheen with a high neckline and full bishop sleeves both trimmed in lace. A lace ruffle enhanced the bottom of the fully-gathered skirt.

Bridesmaids Cheryl Hutchins, a niece of the bride, and Phyllis Hancock and Susan Hancock, sisters of the groom, were attired in identically-styled gowns.

The attendants wore fresh flowers on a comb in contrasting shades to match their bouquets. They carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations, ivy, baby's breath and light and dark pink velvet ribbon streamers.

Laura and Tommy Hutchins, niece and nephew of the bride, served as flower girl and ringbearer. She carried a miniature bouquet of dark pink and white carnations adorned with baby's breath and lace.

Attending the groom as best man was Gary Anderson. Groomsmen and ushers included LeRoy Austin, Gerald Cobb, Mark Maynard, Charles Hull and Tommy Hancock, brother of the groom.

Public can achieve cost cutting and school closings if it gets behind board when the issue is up for decision

The idea of a school repair-improvement bond program that would not increase Granite City-Nameoki-Chouteau taxes is somewhat attractive. Public reaction, if and when a precise referendum proposal is presented, will depend mainly on the merits of the specific package or alternatives submitted to voters.

In the meantime, school authorities are faced with the task of trying to limit teaching and operating costs to the revenue available — in the face of corporate personal property tax uncertainty and a gradual diminishing of the proportion of school costs borne by the state.

Among other cost containment steps, it undoubtedly will become necessary to consider closing one or more elementary schools — an action justified by the overall enrollment picture but unsettling to those who favor attendance by youngsters at a school within their home neighborhood.

Aside from the merits of the neighborhood concept, from a practical standpoint it may prove best to concentrate on closing possibilities, listen to the public at hearings, choose the fairest and soundest plan, and then put it into action. In a previous approach to the same subject the district followed such a lengthy, repetitious hearing process that a strong outcry was almost inevitable, and the passage of time injected the discussion into a yearly board election campaign.

At that time, voter sentiment clearly favored keeping all schools open, despite the added cost in staffs, utilities, maintenance and insurance. At whatever time the public gets fully behind cost conservation, it surely can prevail if it "stands up to be counted."

Disservice to leave suspicion there were sinister plots

Press-Record Washington Bureau — The House Select Committee on Assassinations nearly did itself in shortly after it was created in the fall of 1976 to reopen investigations of the slayings of President John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr.

The first chairman, Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, a Texas Democrat, became embroiled in a personality feud with Richard A. Sprague, the panel's first chief counsel. Both stepped out of the picture in time for the committee to be given new life in the 95th Congress.

Even so, it is debatable, as the body expires with the convening of a new Congress, whether it has justified the expenditure of more than $5 million in investigative funds and the near two and one-half years of legislative labor.

On the positive side, the committee under the leadership of Rep. Louis Stokes, Ohio Democrat, and the new chief counsel, G. Robert Blakey, has helped formulate plans to deal with future tragedies.

Investigative responsibilities have been defined in the light of past deficiencies. Questionable activities by the FBI and CIA have been revealed through 1,500 interviews, as have some unsavory alliances between mobsters and government officials.

The committee has been praised for bringing sophistication to congressional investigations and for its utilization of new technology.

But, at the same time, it got into hot water itself for unwarranted bugging and surveillance procedures.

And, in its final plea to the Justice Department, to reopen the two assassination cases, the committee may have done a disservice to the American public.

The panel's conclusion that there was likely "conspiracy" in both slayings is based on dubious evidence and testimony on the possibility of a second gunman on the grassy plains in Dallas 15 years ago and on reports widely circulated after the King killing of a "bounty" proposed by a southern businessman.

The committee was definite in rejecting the concept of conspiracy in the "broad sense" and in scotching persistent speculation that the FBI and CIA were somehow involved in assassination plots.

It is unfortunate that the panel has perpetuated — on less than persuasive evidence — the suspicion that Lee Harvey Oswald and James Earl Ray were the tools of sinister, unidentified master plotters.

Stern stand against trouble spots is producing results

Every governmental administration as President Carter must agree — has some high points and some low points.

Among the "finest hours" of the Schuler administration in Granite City has been its stern attitude toward night clubs that — for whatever reason — are the scene of frequent incidents of disorder and violence.

It is difficult under Illinois laws and appeal procedures to rid a community permanently of an unwanted liquor-serving establishment. Nevertheless, there have been many temporary disciplinary actions here, setting the stage for more definitive rulings.

Agreement has been obtained this week for elimination of the Upper Level discotheque and lounge in the downtown area with the expiration of the 1978-79 city fiscal year on April 30.

And Mayor Schuler also expects to be able to avoid renewal of the license of Ricco's II on Nameoki Road this spring.

GC South Concert Band performs at 8 tonight

The second and third performances in the 1978-79 concert series by the Granite City High School South Band will take place tonight and next Thursday.

Band Director Terry Waffler said tonight's presentation by the South High Concert Band will take place in the South High auditorium, starting at 8 o'clock.

The program will feature such selections as "The Marriage of Figaro Overture" by Mozart; Klaxon March by Henry Fillmore; Folk Song Suite by R. Vaughan Williams; and Handel in the Strand by Percy Grainger, among others.

A specialty number will be Broadway Spectacular, a medley of the finest moments in American music. Waffler said.

The South High Stage Band will perform Thursday, Feb. 1, in the South High cafeteria. Concert time also will be 8 p.m.

At this performance, refreshments will be served and the music from the 1930's, 1940's up to contemporary times will be spotlighted by the youthful musicians.

The South Stage Band is an educational oriented ensemble, whose main purpose is to familiarize students with the various styles and genre of "big band music," the director explained.

Admission to the concerts is by season pass or single admission tickets, available at the door costing 75 cents for adults and 35 cents for students.

Major push for smaller legislature

Press-Record Springfield Bureau — Although efforts to reduce the size of the Illinois House of Representatives have failed in the past, there's an excellent chance for approval now.

The reason, of course, is the public's disenchantment with the legislature concerning the state officials' pay raise.

Pat Quinn, who is leading the drive, says it is a responsible way to react to the pay raise issue.

For once, many in the legislature who are not in the pay raise issue will agree with him.

Quinn, a political ally of former Gov. Dan Walker, serves as the spokesman for a group known as the Coalition for Political Honesty which has failed in its previous attempts to place questions on the ballot.

Two years ago the group attempted to prohibit legislators from holding jobs with the government, but known as "double-dipping."

Although enough signatures were collected to have the question placed on the ballot, the courts ruled the issue was not permitted under the strict requirements of the state constitution.

Last summer, the group collected signatures to hold an advisory referendum on freezing property taxes. They didn't collect the number of necessary signatures.

Neither effort was looked upon with any favor by the political establishment.

However, quite a few people associated with the establishment, most notably Sam Witwer, president of the Constitutional Convention, have supported a reduction in the size of the House for quite a few years.

A well-financed campaign was mounted in 1974 to reduce the size of House, but the loosely affiliated groups didn't collect enough signatures by the deadline.

Another attempt was made last spring, but not enough signatures were collected again.

Since Quinn has demonstrated in the past that he can organize the collection of hundreds of thousands of signatures on "fringe" issues, he should have no trouble this time.

For one thing, the number of needed signatures has been greatly reduced.

The constitution requires a number equaling at least eight percent of those voting in the last gubernatorial election.

The number voting in the last gubernatorial election was tremendously reduced in November because of the switch of the gubernatorial election to a non-presidential election year.

Quinn says 252,000 signatures are needed. He collected over 500,000 two years ago.

In addition, the deadline for collecting signatures is not until May 1980. That's so far off that the only problem could be that the petition passers lose interest by that time.

By comparison, Gov. James Thompson had 600,000 signatures collected for his proposition in six weeks.

On the ballot, the amendment would not be as likely to be approved.

However, it should be noted that the issue has been presented to the voters previously and defeated.

In 1970, when the new state constitution was adopted, one of the alternatives was whether single-member districts should be adopted.

The multi-member concept won by a vote of 1,051,241 to 749,909.

Although the single-member concept carried, the multi-member idea carried Cook County almost two-to-one.

The political climate has changed in the last decade, though.

As Quinn says, voting to reduce the size of the House would be an easy and responsible way to cut politicians' pay.

Even without the political rhetoric, solid governmental arguments can be made for changing the structure of the House.

First, the Illinois House is the only legislative body in the world which elects members by a system called cumulative voting.

Under the system, each political party nominates two candidates in a primary election. Of the four candidates nominated, three are elected.

A citizen can give three votes to one candidate, one and one-half votes to each of two candidates or one vote to each of three candidates.

The system is designed to ensure that each party has at least one member from each legislative district.

As a practical matter, it also means that neither party will have an overwhelming majority in the House, and the two-party system will remain strong in Illinois.

In addition, the system permits the election of some good representatives who would otherwise have no chance of being elected in a single-member district, because their party is under-represented in that geographical area.

Critics of cumulative voting argue the system protects the incumbents and makes it very difficult to vote in and out of office, because there are no one-on-one contests.

By changing from 59 three-member districts to 118 single-member districts, political competition would be restored.

Quinn says the change would bring the government closer to the people by cutting the geographical size of the present districts. House districts would be cut by approximately one-half.

Under the present system, each legislative district has an average of 30,000 people. Approximately 200,000 persons reside in each district.

Says too much political influence

To the Editor:
 This is an open letter to the City Council of Madison regarding the state of our Madison police department and the antiquated political structure of the Madison police department.

Business people and citizens of Madison currently have only nine uniformed police to protect the entire city, seven days a week, 24 hours a day and 365 days a year.

Taking time out for normal vacations, court time, and sick time for the officers, this will figure out to really only about seven uniformed, commissioned officers.

The administration has staunchly defended the Madison burglar alarm system as a "real deterrent" to crime in the city.

The fact is that there have been four armed robberies in the past number of weeks in Madison, resulting in the shooting death of a businessman and the serious wounding of another.

In 1970, the Madison police force had 16 commissioned officers, including the chief; in 1973, this was cut by the present city administration to 15.

In 1974, the police again were reduced to 14 and in 1978, the administration cut the strength of the police to 12.

It is accepted by most knowledgeable law enforcement officers that the best deterrent to crime is the presence of police officers around, day and night.

Burglar alarms do not catch criminals or prevent shootings; policemen do.

The administration has said repeatedly it is hard to find good candidates for police living in the city. The matter of requiring a job applicant for officer to be from the city is also out-of-date.

The practice in most modern departments is to hire the best men possible, regardless of where they live or which aldermen they know, and then give them an officer six months or a year to move into the city.

When politics dominate a police department like Madison, there can be such problems as unequal enforcement of laws, inadequate adherence to investigative procedures, and tolerance of shift and work "shortcuts."

Although not illegal, it is certainly questionable to have a board of three police commissioners, with one being the uncle of two department members, plus another commissioner being an uncle of yet another officer.

Madison has a fine street department, fire and fire department.

It could have a good police department, as there are some fine officers on the Madison force.

Unfortunately, the city administration must first bring the police department back to at least 16 or more commissioned officers to protect the people and businesses and, second, take "1920s style of politics" out of the city police department.

The city administration always cries that it isn't enough money for extra police; but if there is a pet project of the administration, money always seems to somehow become available.

What price can be put on a life?

I would hope the citizens of Madison will contact their aldermen, and demand more policemen now and a reform of police operations, ending the political abuse at the expense of the citizens.

FEARFUL RESIDENT

Help, trust by slain man recalled

To the Editor:
 An open letter to the murderers of Jim Perdue — In the fall of 1969, a family left Tulsa, Okla., for Madison, Ill. The man and wife brought one young son, a '55 Chevy wagon and $75.

But jobs were harder to find. The wife got a job at a small local restaurant and approached a local man about credit.

One month after this family arrived, the businessman sold the family a baby bed on credit, not even knowing them.

At other times, later on, he would extend his hand in good faith and help them — or turn them down when he thought they were over-burdened.

He was respected and loved by the family for supplying the first stepping stone of commitment for the young people to stay in the Tri-Cities.

Last Friday night, two persons murdered Jim Perdue, a leader, a friend, a true human being.

Our sorrow and hearts go out to Jim's family.

I wish I could understand why they did it, but I am only human. I can only hate them for — even though that wouldn't be Jim's way. God keep you, Jim.

Capital punishment — why not?

Reports lack of public restroom

To the Editor:
 I started downtown to bank, go grocery shopping, etc., and to start my car. It was frozen and I was adding I had on the garage floor.

The padding wrapped itself around the wheels and the car rolled about 30 feet before I was off on the trip.

I entered the A&P grocery at 20th and Madison Avenue. After I gathered my groceries, I asked the manager if I could use the restroom. I was told I could not use it due to insurance, etc.

The public cannot use a restroom in a commercial establishment. How about the employees? Can they walk around crates, bottles and cartons any better than I can?

Mr. Stone, the former manager, let us use the restroom previously.

I had to rush home and put the car in the garage.

This is a very difficult subject to have to write about to the city fathers. Why cannot Granite City alleviate this condition?

The senior citizens had a place for us before moving to 290 Delmar. On a day like the tenth of January, a senior citizen cannot run across town.

I cannot drive to Pontoon and Nameoki Roads that has a public restroom, for groceries when I live two blocks away from a store.

WASHINGTON WOMAN

Sees snow removal improvement

To the Editor:
 We saw a rare and beautiful sight Jan. 8.

Two street department trucks and a snow "scooper" were actually cleaning the snow off our streets at Anchorage. And it was being done right.

Last year, all the snow was left at the curbing and the driveways.

For the first time I've seen a crew working for six months or more.

That big raise in salary for the street superintendent and the election coming up must have done the trick.

Perhaps we'll see more work being done on the streets the next few weeks.

GC SENIOR CITIZEN

Strings attached to J.S. and grant

By HARRY BARNES
 Press-Record Staff Writer
 A change in policy by the federal government in disposal of surplus property will require Granite City to file an amended application for assignment to the city of 34 acres of land in the Granite City Army Installation, City Council members were informed Tuesday.

The policy revision also is expected to require new applications by Quad-City area public entities which have been seeking acquisition of other parcels of Army Installation property which have been declared surplus.

Such applications have been filed by Madison, Venice, Granite City and the Tri-City Regional Port Authority.

A letter by Paul E. Goulding, deputy administrator of the General Services Administration at Washington, D.C., explaining that assignment of surplus property hereafter will be made only under a perpetual use restriction, was referred to Granite City aldermen by U.S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson who had been asked to look into the matter for the city.

Mayor Paul Schuler said it is understanding that the perpetual use agreement will mean that the recipient of surplus property agrees the property can be reclaimed for use in the event a national emergency or other reasonable cause should make such action necessary.

Under prior regulations, the city had requested outright grant of the 34-acre tract at the Army Installation on which the city's secondary sewage treatment facilities are located. The land had been declared surplus.

Mayor Schuler had noted the city, under its present 50-year lease with the government for use of the Army Installation site, the city pays between $500 and $600 per month rental fee.

"If we can obtain the land, even under a perpetuity clause, we would save a lot of money," the mayor said.

Council members authorized Mayor Schuler and City Attorney Lance Callis to study the policy change requirements and to proceed with amended applications to procure the land.

The cost of the work was $115,000, and Community Development had approved a grant of up to $128,000.

The board also discussed a proposal to establish a voluntary pension plan for village employees. Trustee Duane Skinner reported he and a village committee have studied a proposal from Prudential Insurance Co. for a pension plan and are putting the necessary documents together to offer the plan to employees.

Board approval actually establishing the pension plan will be necessary at a later meeting.

Pontoon awards street contract

The Pontoon Beach Village Board Tuesday night approved a contract with Macclair Asphalt Co. to resurface streets in the older sections of the village for a total cost of $121,788. Macclair submitted the only bid.

The work is to be funded by a grant from the Madison County Community Development Office as part of improvements for older neighborhoods.

Areas to be resurfaced will include Kaseberg Lane, North and South drives, East Lake Drive area and others.

The engineer's estimate of the cost of the work was $115,000, and Community Development had approved a grant of up to $128,000.

The board also discussed a proposal to establish a voluntary pension plan for village employees. Trustee Duane Skinner reported he and a village committee have studied a proposal from Prudential Insurance Co. for a pension plan and are putting the necessary documents together to offer the plan to employees.

Board approval actually establishing the pension plan will be necessary at a later meeting.

Upper Level is reopened

The Upper Level Lounge, 19th and State streets has been allowed to reopen by Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler, acting as the city's liquor control commission during negotiations by attorneys for the city and the liquor license holder, Joseph Siemmen.

Schuler has ordered a continuance on a date for ruling whether the lounge's liquor license should be permanently revoked as the result of 12 disturbances in and near the lounge between May 15 of 1978 and Jan. 7 this year.

A hearing on the city's allegations was held Jan. 17 and Schuler had five days in which to reach a decision. Monday, Schuler announced a continuance while attorneys for both sides discuss possibilities which would be "in the welfare of the citizens of Granite City."

A previous revocation order issued by Schuler Jan. 5 has been appealed to the state liquor license control commission. A hearing which was scheduled for yesterday has been continued to March 18.

The city's liquor license will expire April 30 and Schuler has announced he will, "under no circumstances," renew it at that time.

Describe life in Mexico

A study in contrasts between the very wealthy and very poor is the way two local teachers described Mexico for members of the Granite City Educational Secretaries Association Monday night.

Meeting in the new Region One Special Education Office, 21st Street and Delmar Avenue, the group heard a presentation made by Dennis Church, a teacher at Granite City High School South, and Victor Popovsky, an Emerson School teacher.

The two educators recently returned from sabbatical leave spent touring Mexico from the Utan peninsula in the east to Acapulco on the West Coast Mexican Riviera.

The mountainous region around San Miguel de Allende, north of Mexico City, was an area where the teachers spent a great deal of time.

The men lived with the Mexican people, frequently staying in the homes of Mexican families in small villages.

In rural Mexico only about 30 percent of the children attend school, they reported.

They described cultural aspects and customs found in various regions illustrating their talk with colorful slides.

Norma Honey, president, conducted a brief business session and plans were made for "Bosses Night."

The event was set for March 22 at the Media Club, St. Louis, when members will entertain administrators from the Granite City School District.

Financial support was voted to the 1979 national convention of Educational Secretaries, scheduled Oct. 12 to Oct. 14 at Pheasant Run, near St. Charles, Ill.

Refreshments were served to 25 after the meeting by Helen Toncoff from Coolidge Junior High School, Vivian Hillen, Wilson School and Pat Uzanoff from the district's Data Processing Office.

Driver charged after chase

Pontoon Beach, was issued a speeding ticket and was released on $35 bond.

The driver of the other car, Gage, then was told his bond would be $35 and he allegedly said he did not have $35, did not know anyone who would come to Illinois to post it and then drove away from the deputies.

They pursued him onto Interstate 270 and into Missouri where Missouri units joined the chase, it was reported. On Jennings Road, St. Louis County deputies set up a roadblock and alleged Gage's auto collided with a county squad car at the roadblock before he was taken into custody.

JACQUELINE MORRIS, A junior at Coal Hill High School in Arkansas, she has received special honors.

Children of American Revolution chapter is to be organized here

Eleven members of the Brumfield Andrews Chapter of the DAR met during the weekend with Mrs. Emma Schoen, regent, in charge. Mrs. Eva Meier formally welcomed and introduced Mrs. Shirley Schwendemann as a new member of the organization.

Mrs. Marge Hilker read the president general's message and Miss Ella Ray Smith presented several current national defense topics to the group.

It was announced by Mrs. Schoen that Mrs. Janet Wilson, immediate past regent, has been elected vice president of the DAR State Officers Club.

Mrs. Meier, chaplain, announced to the group that Mrs. Ota Crowder, a former member of the chapter, passed away during December in a nursing home. Mrs. Crowder, a former regent of the chapter, was a former employee of the Army Depot here.

Mrs. Wilson reported progress in the organization of a CAR (Children of the American Revolution) chapter. She has been appointed senior organizing president.

Three names have been submitted to the national organization for a possible chapter name: Six-Mile Prairie, Cahokia Mounds, and Lewis and Clark.

This will be the only CAR chapter in the Madison-St. Clair counties area and has already received offers of senior guidance from other DAR chapters in the area. There are many eligible children in the area; membership is from birth to age 22.

The group voted to send a year's subscription of The National Defender to the Granite City Public Library.

Hostesses for the February George Washington tea, at which a "good citizen" from each of the local high schools is honored, will be Mrs. Ruth McCarty, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Hilker and Mrs. Barbara Williams.

The program for the afternoon was given by Mrs. Williams, who talked on the numerous patriotic organizations.

She divided her talk into four divisions: patriotic groups related to particular wars, to particular immigrant groups, to specific periods of history, and to definite geographical areas.

Several members of the group are members of other patriotic organizations, and other possibilities were opened up to many.

Several persons expressed the desire to see if they can meet qualifications of organizations, whether or not they formally join the groups.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Lucille Butler, Mrs. Margaret Belt and Mrs. Florence Simpson.

They displayed decorations they had made for combined December meeting with the Alton DAR chapter, it was cancelled due to icy roads.

Miss Nelle Hart was among those in attendance at the meeting.

St. Margaret Mary dishwasher project

New officers of the Ladies Club of St. Margaret Mary conducted their first meeting last week at the school. Returning President, Karen Costello welcomed the ladies and Sister Marilyn Therese opened the meeting with prayer.

The new secretary, Judy Bucatch, and the new treasurer, Gloria Kasproviach, gave reports. Nancy Miller assumed her duties as vice-president and read several letters.

Ways were discussed to finance a new dishwasher the ladies are helping to purchase for the parish. Chairmen were selected for events this year. They are:

Quilt committee — Virginia Connally and Shirley Jansen.
Golden age dinner — Miss Edie.
Faculty tea — Mickey Swack and Stella Tegel.
Throat culture and bloodmobile — Joann Barnett.

Mobile meals (February) — Sue Nesbitt and JoAnn Rozycki.

Sister Marie Monica announced that the school uniform will remain the same, with jackets, sweaters and other accessories being predominantly navy blue.

Diane Vidor brought up suggestions for ways to decorate the altar for Easter. The club will consider this topic at a later time.

Father Groesch chatted with the ladies before leading the closing prayer. Pizza was served to those in attendance.

Winner of the prize for the evening was Virginia Connally. The quilt recipient was Linda Schulte, and the most mothers in attendance was the first grade.

Next meeting will be Feb. 13 at 7 p.m.

Bride-to-be honored

A bridal shower was given in honor of Miss Melodee Ann Cameron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Cameron of St. Elmo, Ill. She is the bride-to-be of Jack E. Jenkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Jenkins, 1133 Fohling Road, Granite City.

The wedding will take place at the Second Baptist Church, 2100 Illinois Ave., where he is employed as music and youth director, on Feb. 17 at 7:30 p.m.

The shower was given by the prospective groom's sister, Miss Carolyn Jenkins, with co-hostesses Mrs. Denise Wright, Thelma Peterson and Dorothy Born.

Those attending were Mesdames Betty Watkins, Carla Elliott, Mildred Smith, Myra Grote, Ann Wigger, Minnie Cavins, Lena Bonin, Vera Kirkpatrick, Naomi Burnett, Rudy Mayberry, Mildred Cris, Lottie Squires, Norma Rains, Ruth Dodd, Mina Duggins, Galdys Hudgins, Gertrude Mehl, Nellie Moske, Violet Wilson, Mary Pascoe, Patti Justice, Mary Sharp, Alice Hoffman, Betty Grote, Shirley Mayberry, Mildred Garin, Billie Young, Dee Greer, Melie Popilchak, Jerry Short, Laura Maples.

ABOARD 'LOVE BOAT.' Mr. and Mrs. William Zinn, 3228 Newell Drive, celebrate their 13th wedding anniversary while, cruising on the Island Princess between Acapulco, Mexico, and Los Angeles. Maitre D' Giuseppe Franci marks the occasion by serving a special cake. The P&O Line ship has gained international prominence as the ocean set for the "Love Boat" television series.

Spend anniversary on TV's 'Love Boat'

Mr. and Mrs. William Zinn, 3228 Newell Drive, returned home during the weekend after a 12-day holiday, including a cruise from Acapulco, Mexico, to Los Angeles on board the Island Princess. The 645-passenger vessel is the ship on which ocean sequences are filmed for the popular television series, "The Love Boat."

The local couple went by plane to Acapulco, spent four days there and returned to Los Angeles on the P&O Line's Island Princess. "It was a wonderful cruise and everything was first class," the Zinns said. Ports of call along the Mexican Riviera, included Mazatlan, Puerto Vallarta and Ixtapa. A side venture into the Sierra Madre Mountains also was on the itinerary.

The vacationists were seated at the captain's table for several meals, and were fêted at a cocktail party in observance of their 13th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Zinn is the former Margaret Gene Lindsey. Pictures taken by the ship's photographer as mementos show "Love Boat" covers on some life preservers and gangways. Returning to St. Louis from the West Coast, Mr. and Mrs. Zinn traveled on a charter flight with singer Rosemary Cluny and her road show entourage.

West erupts to down Steelers in tourney

Mother Nature fouls things up

By KEVIN ALLEN of the Press-Record
BELLEVILLE — The opening game of the Belleville East Invitational Basketball tournament between Granite City North and Belleville West Tuesday was anti-climatic for both teams.

Even though both teams knew that to advance in the tournament they would have to win, both looked about as excited about the game as they were about the snow storm that hit that night. In the end, West aroused itself enough to swamp North 75-48.

Many factors were responsible for the lack of enthusiasm. Both teams had just played their traditional inter-city rivalry game, typically the high point of the season for each. The weather outside was terrible, making the possibility of postponement a serious question. The gym at Belleville East was almost empty at the start of the game, you could hear the echo of the ball bouncing clear across the stands.

In total, neither team looked much like they wanted to play. North's coach Bill Ohlendorf said, "We just weren't very enthusiastic go in." West's coach Roger Muller said, "In the first half we were about a half count off, but as the game went on we warmed up to the task."

Actually West probably warmed up somewhere in the second quarter. Or it might have just been that North just never did.

In the first period, North

GRANITE CITY — Mother Nature has come down hard on the area high school sports scene. Tuesday's snow fall cancelled many events (not the Sparta or Belleville East Tournaments).

Among the cancellations were Granite City South's girls' basketball game at Edwardsville and Granite City North's girls' basketball game at Marquette of Alton. Tonight's Steelers game at Alton Senior will start an hour earlier, with junior varsity at 5:30 and varsity immediately after.

Last night's schedule at the Belleville East Tournament was a bit altered from the original plan. East was originally supposed to face Murphysboro at 7:30 with St. Louis-DeMet and Belleville Althoff to square off around 8:30. However, road conditions in Southern Illinois prevented Murphysboro from making the trip to Belleville, so only one game was played.

In that contest, top-seeded DeMet defeated Althoff 84-71. As of press time today, it was not known whether or not Murphysboro would be able to make the trip today. If it was able to, the Red Devils will face East tonight in a make-up game. Granite City North, a loser in the first round to Belleville West, is scheduled to play the loser of the East-Murphysboro game tonight in a loser's bracket game.

Also as of press time, tomorrow's game in Madison between the Trojans and Lebanon was still scheduled to take place. Granite City South is set to travel to Alton tomorrow night. There were no games scheduled last night in the Sparta Tournament.

There were no wrestling meets scheduled for this week until tomorrow (Friday).

Dennis Page, had only nine points on the night. Like most of North's opponents, West thought the key to stopping the Steelers was to stop Page. It worked Tuesday.

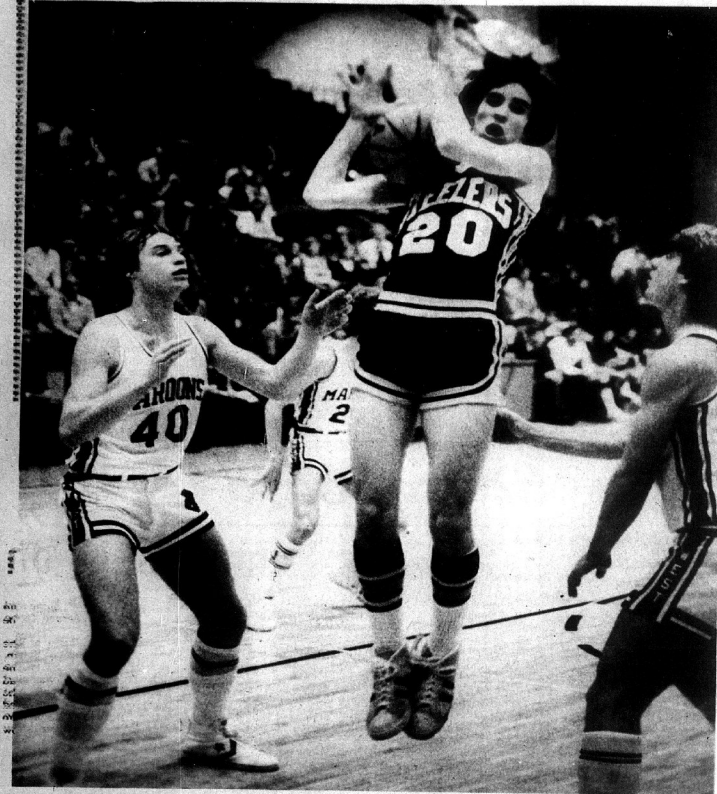

"Page is an excellent shooter," said Mueller. "We put our big kid on him. Our idea was to get him off target and make him shoot over us." West's big kid was Mike Howard, and he effectively stopped Page.

Ohlendorf also thought that his team's changes were largely dependent on Page's success. "Obviously, if your shooters aren't hitting it's going to hurt. If you don't score you suffer," he said. In the second half, West continued to dominate the sleepy Steelers. North just couldn't penetrate West's taller front wall of Ron Sitzel, Greg Sonnenberg, and Mark Hackman. On offense, this trio, along with guard Brent Lahr, all finished the night with over 10 points.

The same was true in the final period. The Steelers looked as if they were sleep-walking. At one point, a North defender was hit in the back by an inbound pass. He was facing the West player for whom the pass was intended while guarding him. Earlier in the quarter, a Steeler threw an air ball on a free throw attempt.

Mueller described North's situation in the game, saying, "We just had better athletes out there. They were at a disadvantage all night. I thought they played pretty hard, though, considering the disparity in height and

I'VE GOT IT? Granite City North's Mike York doesn't seem too sure of his hold on the ball Tuesday night as he comes down with a rebound against Belleville West. The Steelers dropped a 75-48 decision to the Maroons in the first round of the Belleville East Invitational Tournament.

North was to have played the loser of the Belleville East-Murphysboro game tonight, but Murphysboro could not make the trip to Belleville because of icy road conditions last night.

Two-squad Venice advances at Sparta

SPARTA — Venice basketball Coach Ken Perkins got a chance to see something happen here Tuesday night which hasn't happened since 1976. The Red Devils became a 500 basketball team.

Venice defeated Waterloo Senior 73-69 in the final game of the first round of the Sparta Mid-Winter Classic Tournament to raise its record to 7-7. But the whole thing almost didn't get a chance to happen.

Venice's team bus broke down along Route 154 about 14 miles from Sparta on its way to the game. The team, coaches and cheerleaders had to shiver in waiting almost an hour for a way into Sparta.

Compound that situation with the fact that there were gale winds blowing six inches of new snow around on the ground, plus the fact that it took the team nearly five hours to arrive safely back in Venice after the game, and you've got the reason Perkins was so elated with the victory.

"This is a big moment," he said. "It's taken us three years to get back to being a 500 ball club. After our 0-6 start this season, it makes it even sweeter."

Perkins' big moment didn't come without some anxious moments, however. His team trailed Waterloo (now 2-9) at the end of the first quarter 14-10 with all of Venice's points being scored by one man — stalwart Donald Gardner.

"They (Waterloo) were keying on Donald," said Perkins. "And it might have worked since everybody else was so cold except for one thing..."

"Donald takes the ball to the hole and puts it in whether there are two or three players on him or not."

What effect did the hour-long wait in the school bus do to the team? "Nothing good, that's for sure," laughed Perkins. "I think it took us most of the first quarter and probably part of the second to warm up."

"We didn't get the full amount of time to warm up before the game since we were running late."

Coupled with the early-game slump was the fact that Venice was playing its first game in over 10 days. The reason being that the game scheduled with Vashon last Saturday night was postponed because of the St. Louis teachers' strike. "It means a lot to be off for a long time like that," said Perkins. "Heck, at the beginning of the game, it looked like we were just out there on the floor. We weren't running any offense at all."

What Perkins DID run was his lineup in and out of the game. Because of the addition of two former Red Devils — turned Loveloy Wildcats — turned back to

Red Devils (whew!), he started his normal five at the beginning of the game, but then rested them early in the second quarter and put in an entirely new set of players. "I want to keep the continuity of the original starting five out there, but still give Salmond and Jones a chance to work the kinks out and work into our system."

The addition of Jones and Salmond opened another avenue of offense to Perkins. "We had a fast break working tonight," he said. "It's the first time all season we've been able to use it effectively. And it's all because of that second unit out there. They like to run-and-gun it a little."

The "second unit," as Perkins referred to it, consisted of Salmond, Darryl Jones, Wendell McIntyre, Lamont Blakey and Derrick Mathis. The "first unit" consisted of Reggie Mathis, Ricky Jones, Gardner, Terry Arnold and James Watkins. "I kind of like the way our second unit runs," said Perkins. "I guess part of it comes from the fact that they know if they happen to miss a shot, they've got a 6'3" guy (Salmond) to go up and tip it back in."

But things about the first unit which agree with Perkins are patience, intelligent play on offense and scrappy defense. "I'll miss a shot, they've got a 6'3" guy (Salmond) to go up and tip it back in."

Other speakers on the baseball part of the program will include: Tom McDewitt, baseball coach at Eastern Illinois University; Tom Dill, baseball coach at East Central Junior College at Union, Mo.; Babe Champion, baseball coach at Granite City South High School. Topics will include: hitting, infield techniques, motivation.

Saturday, Feb. 17 will be devoted to the softball and baseball program for another week or so until I find the right combination of elements," he said.

In the third quarter, Venice erased any doubt from the minds of the few brave fans who had ventured through snow drifts to watch the game... the Devils ran all over Waterloo.

As the fourth quarter began, however, Waterloo began applying a full-court press on the Venice "second unit." The resulting turnovers and subsequent Waterloo baskets narrowed the once-large margin to a mere six points (69-65) with about three minutes left.

Enter first unit.

"We just needed to settle down a little and not let their press bother us," said Perkins. "But some of the inexperienced guys weren't doing that. They panicked and caused turnovers."

Venice will face Sparta tomorrow (Friday) at 8:30 p.m. in a semifinal game. The championship game will be played Saturday night around 9 o'clock.

Shy Granite Cityyn contributes at SIUE

By AL BARNES
for the Press-Record

EDWARDSVILLE — Shy Michael Ray Waldo, senior forward on the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville basketball team, is a gentle, sensitive young man off the hardwood court. When the whistle blows for action, what a metamorphosis takes place in him. The lean and hard 6'4" Waldo suddenly becomes a battling, scrambling ball of action. He never stops fighting for the ball or fighting for position (for rebounds) under both baskets.

The Granite City (North) native can also score, too. He's carrying a 5.2 points-per-game average, while pulling down three rebounds a game.

Funny thing, though, Waldo on the floor at Collinsville's Fletcher Gym, no less.

Playing two years of prep basketball for the Granite City Steelers, Waldo had the misfortune to gain his high school cage experience when the institution first opened its doors.

Consequently, Granite City North isn't known state-wide, despite the top-flight job Coach Bill Ohlendorf has performed there, as a prep basketball factory which grinds out college prospects year in and year out. And despite the Steelers' posting one of the biggest upsets in Illinois high school basketball history in Waldo's senior year, a mind-boggling 49-48 victory over previously undefeated Collinsville in the regional tourney final. And, where, they'll let me use the floor at North," explained Waldo. He added: "I owe a lot, too, to Arnold Copland, athletic director and assistant coach at Lewis and Clark Junior College at Godfrey, where I did my first two years of college work."

"Coach Copland gave me my chance when no one else was even remotely interested," he said.

How about the Cougars' season? "Well, you know we have almost held our season yet to play. We can still come out of it a winner. And, I think we will," he predicted.

If all the Cougar cagers play as hard as Waldo does, the final SIUE 1978-79 record could be on the plus side, that's for sure.

What we go through just to get a story

GRANITE CITY — What we go through just to get a story to you my friend, the reader!

Take Tuesday night, for instance. The weather outside (to coin a phrase) was frightful. But there was no delightful fire for this reporter or colleague Kevin Allen. Oh no!

In the fine communities of Belleville and Sparta there were basketball tournaments going on. Were they postponed? No way! Now you've got to realize that EVERYTHING on earth was cancelled Tuesday night (and last night, too). But not the tournaments. I guess the only things open Tuesday night were hospitals, taverns and gymnasia, the three most important things around.

So (please bear with me, this may get a little heavy). Kevin Allen set out for Belleville to cover Granite City North's game in the East Tournament. I was planning to go to Sparta to cover Venice in that meet. I also had on my agenda a stop in Belleville to take a picture or two of the North game and then go on to Sparta. That way I'd have both games on one roll. Since North was to play at 7 p.m. and Venice not until 8:30, the timing was perfect... or so I thought.

Things went according to plan until I left the Belleville East gym. Going to Belleville on Routes 159 and 161 wasn't bad at all... lots of traffic you know. But Route 154 from Belleville to Sparta... forget it. I felt like a pioneer blazing a trail through the wilderness. I'm not exaggerating when I say I was the first person to travel the road. And it was under four inches of snow. I just had to guess. If there had been a church open along the road I might have stopped off for a word or two with the Guy upstairs to ask if he'd hold it off at least until the Sparta Tournament game was over.

Well, I arrived at Sparta. After about an hour-and-a-half. It usually takes just about 40 minutes (at most). There were still about two minutes left in the first quarter.

I covered the game and thought I'd get out of there as fast as I could... try and beat the weather back to good ol' Granite City, you know. Ha ha.

I slipped and I slid. It took me about 15 minutes to travel two miles. After seeing five or six cars go into a ditch for the night, I turned back to Sparta.

Now, here's where it gets interesting: My in-laws live in DuQuoin, Ill., about a 20 minute drive from Sparta (in dry weather of course). I telephoned my wife and told her to let them know I was

(Oh, I forgot to tell you. All this time I was critically ill. I had gotten up from my death bed to go out and cover those stories.)

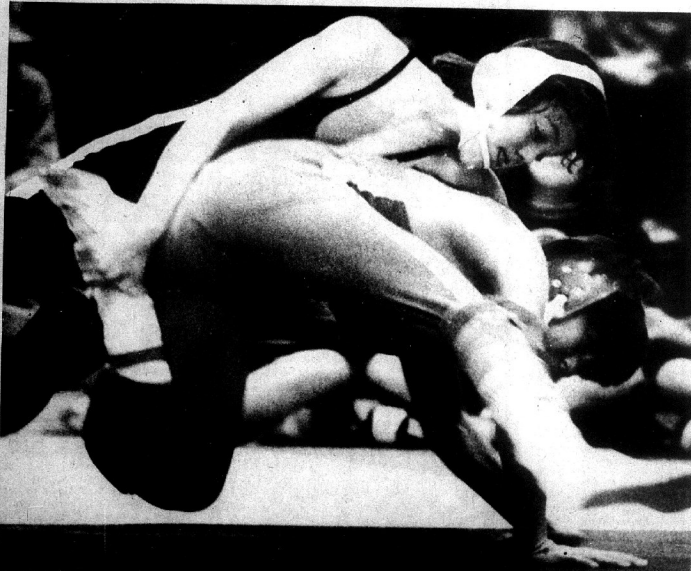

I stayed the night in DuQuoin and got up to leave about 7 a.m. I stopped by a doctor's office in Pinckneyville (home of the snow plow) to get some medicine so I wouldn't have to cover heading that way. I'd heard the snow wasn't as bad further south. It really wasn't as bad, but it was about like saying there isn't as much water in the Pacific Ocean as the Atlantic.

The trip to DuQuoin was about a two hour job. I did see a few snow plows. In fact I saw three in all. Two together about two miles west of Pinckneyville and one just on the other side of Pinckneyville. I wonder that gets them that treatment?

my funeral when I got back to Granite. He told me I had bronchitis. What a nice thing to say to brighten up my day. The trip back to this area along Interstate 64 (by way of Nashville) was a thrill. I couldn't get my car to go over 30 miles an hour. Oh, my car would have gone that fast, but I'd had ended up in a ditch, along with the 9,000,000 other people I saw off the road. I finally arrived safe (?) and sound in dear old GC about 2 p.m. yesterday.

Just thought you'd like to know what we go through for our readers. Maybe I'll enter a monastery...

SAY UNCLE! Prather Junior High wrestler Brad Clark has his opponent in a bad way during a recent meet. Prather is currently in second place in the Madison County Junior High Conference with a 3-2 dual meet record.

Fernando sparkles like a tennis gem

By AL BARNES
for the Press-Record
EDWARDSVILLE — Arjun Fernando, whose tennis form is as beautiful as one of the many gems of his native Sri Lanka (Ceylon), is so quiet and self-effacing that many of his foes have played a match with him before they realize he's as hard as a diamond.

With his politeness and modest mien covering up his deadly concentration, his array of really terrific shots nearly always appears to catch his opponents by surprise. Of course, now in his fourth year as a top player of the national championship (NCAA Division II) Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville tennis team, most of his foes know him before his matches.

However, the effect of his subdued form still lulls opponents who are not wary. Over the past three years, Fernando has put together a truly impressive record: freshman, 23-4; sophomore, 22-7; junior, 25-5; and so far as a senior, 15-2. As a sophomore, he played a key role in the Cougars' second place finish nationally, and last year his play was crucial to SIUE capturing the national Division II crown at San Diego, Calif.

What was his biggest victory for the Cougars? Quick as a flash, he answered: "My three-setter over John Austin, UCLA's No. 1 player last spring at Los Angeles. He'd just beaten Roscoe Tanner in three sets the week before I upset him."

Any other match that stood out in his mind? "Yes, sir. It was my three-setter win over Leo Palin of Pepperdine U., also on that California trip. He's Finland's No. 1 player and top player on their Davis Cup squad."

Fernando has his mind on a pro career. "I'll start on the No. 3, the American Express tour, where the prize money comes to $25,000. Then, I hope without too much trouble, or time, to move on to the Mini Grand Prix circuit, where the prize money is $75,000. And, then with luck, up to the WCT competition where the hoodie zooms to $150,000."

Fernando pointed out that he must play qualifying rounds in the three tournaments listed in order to be entered in any of them. Kent DeMars, coach at SIUE and the man responsible for bringing Arjun to the States, thinks Fernando can make it in the pros. "He's got the perfect temperament to play the pro circuit, plus the fact that he's always learning. And studying the game. And picking up hints to help his game."

The modest young man wanted to thank several men back in his native land for giving him a "leg up" when he needed it. "D.D.N. Selvadurai, he's the one who started me off well-grounded in the game's fundamentals. Now in the tourist business, Selvadurai learned tennis teaching while working for Harry Hopman in New York when that famous teacher of the Australian tennis players gave lessons in the summers to extra special pupils; or, to stars who were having trouble with certain parts of their games."

Three others who helped him more than somewhat were his father, mother and brother, Sujit. On his only trip back home after his freshman year, he teamed up with Sujit and won the doubles championship of Sri Lanka, after, of course, winning the men's singles title.

Almost as important in the development of his tennis game were the many sessions he spent with Lassantha Fernando after Arjun had begun playing top-flight tourneys throughout the world. This Fernando is no relative of Arjun.

Park Board plans July 4 celebration

Despite the ice and snow outside, Granite City Park Board members met last night to begin planning for the annual July 4 carnival and fireworks display.

Approval was given to tentative plans for a 40 to 45-minute fireworks display in Wilson Park which will cost about $4,400, up from $4,185 last year. The board concurred with purchasing $1 million worth of insurance for the celebration.

It was reported that repairs to the Wilson Park Ice Rink roof have been completed, but it will be necessary to wait until ice on the roof melts before it can be determined whether any leaks remain.

Board Member George Sykes requested installation of a wheelchair ramp and viewing area, so persons unable to use the bleachers will be able to watch hockey games in the ice rink from their wheelchairs.

SIUE wrestlers down

By DAVE CAUSEY
for the Press-Record
EDWARDSVILLE — The wrestling Cougars of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Wednesday night suffered their third straight loss as they fell to the Fighting Illini of the University of Illinois, 21-11.

The defeat puts the Cougars' dual meet record at 6-6. The Cougars were ahead before the heavyweight match by a 16-15 score, with newcomer Tim Printz, a transfer from Northern Michigan, at that spot for SIUE. Printz was winning the match late in the third period when he suffered a knee injury and had to default.

At 118 pounds, Tom Reed started off the meet with a 17-12 victory over Illini Bruce Mulrenin. Cougar 126-pounder, dropped his match with his arch rival, Kevin Puebla, by a 7-6 score on a takedown in the waning seconds.

The Illini captured the next two matches to go ahead 9-3 as 134-pound Juan Causey defeated Tim Ervin, 8-4, and Dan Irussi beat Cougar 142-pounder Mike Lorentzen, 13-9.

SIUE senior Dru Meshes tied the meet for the Cougars with a fall decision over his 157-pound opponent Paul Vestuto in 1:28. Tim Napier put the Cougars ahead with a victory over Illini's 158-pound Trent Taylor by a score of 14-9.

The Illini tied it up in the 167-pound match as Tim Fiorni beat Conny Karlsson, 9-4.

Senior Mark Hattendorf gave the Cougars a four-point lead as he beat Illini's 177-pounder, Steve Briggs, 16-6. Rick Johnson at 190 pounds drew the Illini within one point as he defeated the Cougars' Norm Mitchell, 7-6, setting up the heavyweight match.

South skaters fall to Stars

ST. LOUIS — The Granite City South club ice hockey team fell to the tough McCluer North Stars here

Monday night 5-3.

The loss, which dropped South to a 3-10 won-lost record, might have been not so close had it not been for some fifty goal-tending from Warrior goalie Greg Mulach.

He stopped 37 McCluer North shots on goal. South, meanwhile managed just 23 shots.

The Warriors' goals were scored by Todd McFarland (from Tim Dix), McFarland (from Ron Briddick) and Andy Hinterser (from Tim Phelps).

South's next game will be tomorrow (Friday) night against McCluer Senior at 9:15 p.m. in the Delwood Rink.

ARJUN FERNANDO

Pressing on...

RICH LITTLE confessed backstage at the Sands Hotel to WAYNE NEWTON that he can't imitate everyone.

He admitted that he can't imitate ROBERT REDFORD and PAUL NEWMAN because, "Their voices are not distinctive, and unless you see them, you can't identify them. Today's emphasis is on the body, not on the voice," he sighed.

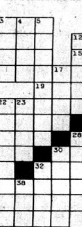

"Rock Hudson and our superstars all sound alike. If you've heard one, you've heard them all. Not like the old-timers of the '30s, '40s and '50s."

"Years ago, the accent was on personality and the stars were larger than life and easily identifiable. People really didn't care about the plot. They went to the movies because they wanted to see Gary Cooper, not because the story attracted them."

"Today we see chunks of real life, and the stars who play in the films are incidental. What it boils down to is that stars aren't larger than life anymore. They're real life."

RESTAURANT OPENING. Sam Brown, a local entertainer, will provide the entertainment at the grand opening of Scaturro's Restaurant in Madison.

Restaurant plans opening

Scaturro's Restaurant and Lounge, 705 Madison Ave., Madison, is planning a grand opening celebration Friday and Saturday.

Entertainment will be provided by Sam Brown and "Sound Unlimited." Music starts at 9 p.m. each evening. Brown is widely known in the Quad-City area for a wide variety of music and his show, "Images of Elvis." He appeared at The Den in Granite City for 25 weeks and in several other lounges in the area.

The restaurant is located in the lower level and offers Italian food. It is owned by Bob Scaturro who formerly operated a television shop where the lounge now is located.

Prizes will be awarded each evening.

2nd hearing on Christian Welfare plan

A public hearing will be held Monday, Jan. 29, on the application of Christian Welfare Hospital, East St. Louis, to discontinue operation of the entire facility, containing 263 beds. The hearing will be at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of State Community College, 2525 State St. It is a continuation of an earlier hearing on the application and is being held to provide additional opportunity for interested persons to express their views.

Christian Welfare is an acute-care facility providing general short-term hospital services in St. Clair County. The hospital proposes to discontinue operation of its entire facility due to historical and projected financial losses.

The hearing is being conducted by the Greater St. Louis Health Systems Agency (HSA). In November 1976, the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board approved the application of the HSA to review proposed plans for new health care facilities and services or for major changes in existing ones in St. Clair, Madison, Monroe and Clinton counties. Illinois law — the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Act — authorizes area-wide health planning agencies throughout the state to make recommendations to the Health Facilities Planning Board regarding whether these proposed plans are in conformance with existing state or local plans, standards and criteria.

Main purpose of the law is to consider whether there is real need for such plans. Under the law, consideration is given to the beds and services already available in the area.

Comments received at the hearing on Jan. 29 will be summarized and presented to HSA review committees to assist them in their decision making.

These committees are: Acute Care Task Force (Feb. 15, 3 p.m.); Review Committee (Feb. 15, 7 p.m.); and Executive Committee (March 1, 4:30 p.m.). They all meet at the HSA offices, 915 Olive St., 15th Floor, St. Louis. Recommendations of the executive committee will be forwarded to the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board, which will make the final decision regarding the application.

All interested persons are invited to attend the public hearing and to make written and/or verbal comments in favor of, or in opposition to, the proposed discontinuation. For further information, Quad-Cityans may contact Robert C. Hartley, director of project review at the HSA, telephone 314-241-5810.

$5,759,379 construction in past year nearly matches 1977

Building permits issued by Granite City during 1978 showed a slight decline from 1977 permits in dollar values, but it was still the second highest year since 1972.

The city issued 791 building permits which listed values totaling $5,759,379 during the year, according to the annual report just issued by Bill Dallas Jr., inspection department secretary.

A driver and her passenger were taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center by ambulance at 1:24 a.m. Sunday following an accident in which the driver of the other car left the scene on foot after inquiring if anyone was hurt.

The other car, a 1972 Dodge Charger, was impounded by police until they can identify the driver or owner.

The Hale woman and Linda Schneide, 2215 E. 23rd St., a passenger, were treated at the medical center.

Separate trials denied APA to offer pets at Aqualand store

The Association for Protection of Animals will offer puppies and kittens for adoption during regular business hours at the Aqualand aquarium and pet store, 1233 Nineteenth St., starting Feb. 5.

Carol Willoughby, a supervisor for the non-profit humane group, said Mrs. Dorothy King, owner of the pet store, has agreed to allow the association enough space for two cages of kittens and puppies.

Until this time, the APA has held adoption clinics about once a month.

To complete details and arrange work assignments for the new project, the group will hold a meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Sanitary District office, 1801 Madison Ave.

Anyone interested in the organization's activities and wishing to learn more about its objectives is invited to attend the meeting. Mrs. Willoughby said.

The store hours are from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Mrs. Elsie Foster, manager of Aqualand, has agreed to assist persons coming into the store to adopt a pet, should an APA volunteer not be on duty.

A pet may be adopted for a nominal fee, she explained, with funds received being used to cover expenses of medical care and the feeding of unwanted or neglected animals.

Aiassi speaks to artist guild

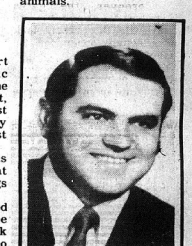

Eugene L. Aiassi, art education and public relations consultant for the Granite City School District, addressed the Gateway East Artists Guild at a monthly meeting in Collinsville last week.

Topic of his address was "Judging exhibits - what judges look for in paintings and other works of art."

He said an experienced judge works silently while observing each piece of work individually, and attempts to understand the reasoning of the artist for using various techniques and media.

The judge also looks for expressions of emotions of the artist through use of paint, while he must keep in mind the use of basic principles of design and color, it was explained.

Other areas of consideration are the uses of radiation, graduation, center of interest, proportion, rhythm, portrayal of religious and political beliefs, ethics, humanitarianism, and failures, achievements and relationships as an artist.

Lambert ignoring plan process, reviews, runway and cargo needs, parking, road jams—Saunders

The St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority is responsible for developing a new major airport to serve the St. Louis region at the Columbia-Waterloo site, which has been approved by the federal government, but is being opposed by Transportation Secretary Brock Adams.

Following is a statement by Arven H. Saunders, executive director of the St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority, on a new proposal to add 25 to 30 more passenger gates at Lambert Airport:

"The few details disclosed so far the proposal to add 25 to 30 new passenger gates at Lambert Airport raise far more questions than they answer.

"Of most serious concern is the clear indication that we are farther away than ever from having a new master plan for Lambert," Saunders said.

"The means of financing the proposed $200 million addition circumvent the master plan process, which requires full public review at both the local and federal levels.

"By avoiding the master plan requirements, Lambert will force on the shoulders of the airport's users millions of dollars in costs that would be available from the Federal Airport Trust Fund if the addition were part of an approved master plan.

"The additional gates will make no meaningful dent on Lambert's major deficiency—lack of runway capacity to meet the future demand as projected in even the most pessimistic forecasts.

"Further, the announcement gives no assurance that the increasingly severe parking problems and the lack of adequate access roads and highways can be corrected.

"Moreover, the gates proposal appears—to aggravate the present lack of adequate space for air freight facilities.

"The announcement said the new gates would be built on the site of present cargo facilities, which will be moved farther to the east.

"Lambert's own advisers have said that the present cargo facilities are insufficient and that they should be expanded. There does not appear to be much space for cargo facilities in the relocation area as is presently provided to say nothing of room for expansion.

"St. Louisans will find little comfort in the claim that the proposed new gate building will put Lambert 'among the top 10 airports in the country' in gate capacity.

"The 'top 10' airports are among the nation's most congested. And in every instance where there is land available for major expansion or for development of a new airport to supplement these 'top 10,' work plans are being pressed forward.

"In view of the surge in aviation, why has Lambert turned away from the master plan process?

"Could it be that Lambert officials know that such a plan would have to deal with the runway and other problems for which no solution is possible at Lambert?

"The absence of any indication of master planning for Lambert is the more curious in light of an assurance by the City of St. Louis to the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council nearly two years ago that such a plan would be forthcoming.

"This authority has in the past and continues to support interim improvements at Lambert. We also want to see the St. Louis region achieve the potential as a major national and international aviation hub.

"This great economic advance will not be achieved by pretending that stop-gap measures—at an airport that is, at best, limited—constitute a national leadership in aviation.

"Indeed, there is every indication that observers around the country are not deceived.

"In its Dec. 4, 1978, issue, Fortune Magazine describes St. Louis as 'a major bottleneck in air traffic.'

"U.S. News & World Report, in its Dec. 4 issue, quotes an expert as saying St. Louis among those high on his list of airports that are at our near capacity," Saunders asserted.

"Both Secretary of Transportation William T. Coleman Jr. and his successor, the present Secretary Brock Adams, expressed serious concern about the potential capacity of Lambert's runways.

"Both used estimates of future demand that were made before the great upsurge in aviation and the deregulation of airlines, which portends continued heavy growth.

"Both also used the capacity estimates of the Parsons Master Plan proposals. These proposals placed heavy reliance on the possibility of future breakthroughs in electronic technology.

"Now, Lambert has apparently abandoned many of the Parsons proposals, and the prospects of new technology are even more remote.

"In his decision approving the Columbia-Waterloo site, Mr. Coleman included the following estimates:

"Capacity at Lambert, operations per hour, 1980-85-90-95-98:

"Parsons Master Plan (assuming significant air traffic control technology advances)—65, 79, 82, 85, and not specified.

"PMM projection—67 in 1998.

"Speas forecast—Not specified, 62, 61, and not specified.

"The latter two forecasts assume no significant advances in air traffic control technology that increase capacity.

"PMM refers to the study by Peat Marwick Mitchell for the Department of Transportation. The Speas forecast was by R. Dixon Speas Associates for the St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority.

"From the Coleman decision, the projected aviation demand at Lambert for 1985-90-95-2000 peak hour operations, including air carrier, air cargo, commuters, military and general aviation, were listed as: "PMM 88, 88, 89 and 91. "RMP 79, 82, 90 and not specified.

"In deciding to suspend 'for the present time' federal funds for purchase of the Columbia-Waterloo site, Secretary Adams expressed concern about Lambert's runway capacity. On page 5 of his decision he said:

"By contrast, projections indicate that even if one assumes the improvement of Lambert in accordance with the master plan prepared by the Ralph M. Parsons Co. and the successful development and deployment of the so-called upgraded third generation of air traffic control systems, the lowest reliable estimate of Lambert demand for 1990 (82 operations-hour) equals the highest estimate of capacity for the same year (82 operations-hour).

"By 1995, according to Parsons, projected demand (90 operations-hour) would outstrip capacity (85 operations-hour), causing substantial aircraft delays and possibly reduced service through a decline in frequencies.

"In the conclusion, he cautioned:

"In reaching this decision I cannot ignore the clear danger signals flowing from the recent studies of Lambert Airport capacity and demand. Unless steps are taken to expand the capacity of Lambert, peak-hour delays may become massive by the mid-1990s.

"Moreover, even if Lambert is upgraded along the lines of the Parsons Master Plan—and since no environmental impact statement for such a project has yet been prepared, it is impossible to know whether such an upgrading would be legally and environmentally acceptable—current forecasts indicate serious peak-hour delays may develop by the mid-1990s, forcing a reduction of service."

Saunders concluded, "To repeat, since Adams' decision in March 1977, the Parsons proposals have been put in limbo—and aviation has grown far beyond anything foreseen in the decision with far more growth in prospect."

Fewer births, more deaths during '78

There were fewer births and marriages in Madison County during 1978, compared with those of 1977, but the number of deaths increased slightly, according to a vital statistics report released by County Clerk Evelyn Bowles.

The report listed a total of 3,269 births during 1978, down from 3,388 the previous year, and 2,756 marriages last year, down from 2,825 in 1977. Deaths, however, totaled 2,105, up from 1,969 the previous year.

Miss Bowles' report said that of the total of 2,756 marriages in 1978, 649 were performed in Granite City, an increase from 589 performed during 1977.

Seventy-two marriages were performed last year in Madison, down from 108 in 1977, and nine were performed in Venice last year, up from 18 the previous year.

Of the 3,269 births last year, 1,614 were boys and 1,655 were girls.

The largest number of births of any single month of last year occurred in July when 300 were reported—151 of them boys and 149 girls.

The smallest number of births in any single month was 239 during April, including 126 boys and 113 girls.

Thirty sets of twins were born in 1978, a 25 percent decrease below the 40 sets recorded during 1977. There were no triplets born in either year, the report said.

The largest number of deaths in any single month of 1978 occurred in January when 230 were reported, up from 183 in the same month of the previous year.

The fewest deaths in any single month last year was 138 in September, compared with 157 in the same month of 1977.

The report showed that the month of June continued to be the favorite month for weddings. A total of 332 marriages was performed in June 1978, the largest number in any month of the year. That figure was identical to the 332 marriages performed in June 1977.

The lightest month for marriages last year was January, when 134 marriages were reported, down from 165 in the same month of the previous year.

Try this reverse diet

I am sick of it, fed up and disgusted. I'm tired of the funny looks, and the clothes that don't fit. I am going on a diet. I will gain 15 pounds if it kills me.

Did you ever have anyone tell you that you were a good candidate for a three-bean salad? I've been called stringbean, a zipper with eyes, and all sorts of skinny joke type things for years, and I intend to put a stop to it.

Ladies come up to me all of the time and ask, "How do you stay so slim?" All the while they are thinking, "She is so skinny that she looks ready to drop dead."

Cream puffs and banana nut bread for breakfast, followed by two chocolate malts.

All of the things on my diet will be fattening. I will eat cream puffs and banana nut bread for breakfast, followed by two chocolate malts. I will wait an hour and eat a balanced meal. I will eat pepperoni pizza for lunch every day, with the exception of weekends. Chocolate malted milks will replace coffee and water.

Skinny people of the world, unite!

For dinner, I will concentrate on blue cheese dressing, sour cream, lasagna, lobster with drawn butter, capachino, and strawberries shortcake with mounds of whipped cream.

If I eat in this manner for six weeks, I MAY gain five pounds.

Of course, the children will have to survive on Hamburger Helper without the hamburger for me to be able to AFFORD to gorge myself on the expensive goodies I require to gain any weight.

Actually, I have always been a complete failure when it comes to encouraging my body to fill out. I have tried everything I can think of to gain weight.

I once went on a banana and Sego diet. I ate the banana with my regular lunch and drank two cans of Sego. Between meals, I drank more Sego. After suffering in this manner for two weeks, I had gained four ounces.

It seems to me that clinics should be set up to fatten up us skinny people. I get tired of being mistaken for a boy.

I have often wondered why someone can't come up with a reverse Weight Watchers. It would be a place where everyone would be fed until they could hold no more.

They would not be allowed to touch anything that isn't worth its weight in calories. Skinny people, unite. We must have help if we are going to attain our goal, to bring ourselves up to normal weight.

Not allowed to touch anything that isn't worth its weight in calories.

We must fight for our rights to gorge ourselves, to be forced to eat if necessary. I intend to start today. I'm going out and eat a pizza... a king-sized pepperoni with mushrooms.

Dismiss charges

Circuit Judge Horace Calvo has dismissed two aggravated battery counts against James L. Brook, 22, Ferguson, Mo., due to insufficient evidence, court officials have announced.

Brook had been charged in connection with a Sept. 28 incident in the parking lot of Rico's II Lounge, 3675 Nameoki Road, in which two men were injured, one after being struck with a tire tool.

Calvo gives probation

Madison Garrett Jr., 26, of 1321 Oriole St., Venice, who was found guilty Jan. 9 by a jury of aggravated battery, has been sentenced by Circuit Judge Horace Calvo to serve two years of probation and to pay a $250 fine.

Garrett allegedly shot Van Sullivan, 26, of 624 Mercedia St., Venice, outside Garrett's Tavern, 1001 Douglas St., Venice, accidentally Sept. 30, 1978, while shooting at Sullivan's brother, Harold Sullivan. A disagreement about the purchase of a coat led to the shooting, police were told.

4 arrests each day on buses

Bi-State's concentrated passenger security program netted 56 arrests during its first 14 days, Roy J. May, chairman of the Bi-State Development Agency, said this week. "These results are even better than anticipated and the program evidently will improve passenger security substantially," he added.

The special program, which began Jan. 1 and augments regular security efforts, provides plainclothes police officers to ride buses during their off-duty hours, boarding buses at random times and locations daily. These officers—working within their jurisdictions—have the authority to make arrests and issue summonses. Records show an average of four arrests per day.

Half of the arrests (29) were made for possession of marijuana or other potent drugs. Others were for possession or sale of stolen goods, carrying a concealed weapon, alcohol consumption, peace disturbance and miscellaneous offenses. Some of those arrested were charged with more than one offense.

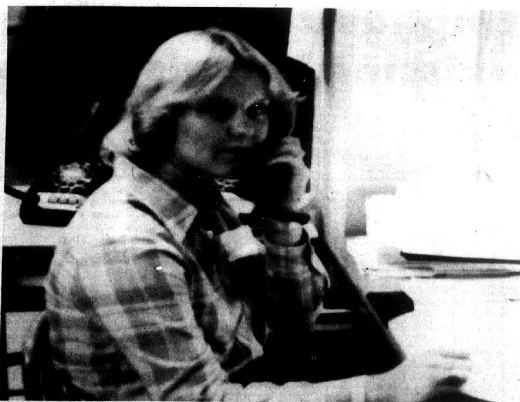

There were only 40 arrests in all of 1978.

OFFICE OCCUPATIONS in the two Granite City High Schools offer students a wide variety of vocational training in preparation for a position upon graduation. Kathy Hadley works in the guidance department office at South.

Office occupations offered students

Students in the Granite City high schools interested in immediate employment in office occupations upon graduations are trained in a wide variety of related topics through the Vocational education training program. The Office Occupations class meets for one class period each day and covers areas of instruction in the following areas: human relations in business, telephone technique, personal development, improvement of business skills, individualized units, pre-employment testing, filling out job applications, interviewing techniques.

Also, income tax preparation, on-the-job evaluation, discussion of personal and group problems, word processing (emphasizing letter arrangement, spelling and punctuation), letters of application and resumes, letters of resignation, civil service-type testing (including vocabulary, math, spelling, letter arrangement, manuscript typing, proofreading). These office trained students also are placed in practical situations while taking the course where they learn to handle office procedures through personal experiences, school officials said.

The employer in cooperation with a school staff coordinator is responsible for evaluating the student and providing constructive supervision of training on the job.

The school coordinator visits the employer supervisor to discuss the students progress.

The Office Occupations Cooperative Program allows the work-bound student to spend one half of the day during the senior year attending regular classes while the other half is spent working in an office under supervision.

Such cooperative offices in Granite City are: insurance offices, loan offices, real estate offices, industrial business offices, law offices, banks, medical offices and retail store offices.

Admission to the program is based upon: grades, attitude, references, interviews, skill achievement, career objectives, attendance records and employability.

Regular school credit is given for this "on-the-job-training."

In preparation for the office occupations a student should start as a freshman and take as many business oriented courses as possible, school authorities advise.

The student with immediate office employment in mind upon graduation should seek the guidance of trained counselors of the high schools.

These trained students have an advantage when seeking employment because they have a year of experience in the office.

The office occupations coordinator for Granite City High School South is Mrs. Jeannette Holder. At North High School the coordinator is Donald Davinroy.

Youth beaten

Robert O'Dell, 19, of 2812 Maryville Road, was admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 2:05 a.m. Saturday suffering from contusions to the skull and bruises to the left side of the face after he was attacked and beaten by several youths at Nameoki and Pontoon Roads.

O'Dell told police he had a disagreement with a man earlier at Tri-Mor Bowl. He left there after the bowling lanes closed and was stopped for the traffic signal at Nameoki and Pontoon roads when several persons jumped out of two cars. He said four to six men beat him with fists and tire tools. Police quoted O'Dell as saying an unidentified man in a truck pulled up, fired several shots into the air and the men fled.

The two were charged with beating Dennis Crable, 27, of 2162 State St., with a club while he was walking in an alley near the 1900 block of State Street Sept. 8.

GC ambulance bill paid by city of Venice

The city of Venice has paid Granite City an ambulance bill of $1,890 after Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler notified Venice that ambulance service would be cut off if the bill was not paid.

The fees for ambulance calls to residents of Venice or other surrounding municipalities and townships are paid by the tax agency if the residents using the service fail to pay their bills within 90 days. The residents then are supposed to reimburse the taxing agency.

Acting Mayor E. H. Buehler delivered the check for Venice to Robert Stevens, city clerk. Venice had delayed making the payment in an effort to recover some of the costs from Medicare and Public Aid.

Five-year prison term

Madison County Circuit Judge Harold R. Clark has sentenced Robert C. Rogers, 33, East St. Louis, to serve five years in prison after being found guilty by a jury of attempted burglary.

Dec. 6, a jury at Edwardsville found him guilty of attempting to break into Madison Aluminum Foundry, 1800 Benton St. He was found innocent of possessing burglary tools.

'78 births decline 23%

Births in the Quad-City area during 1978 declined substantially — by 23 percent — below those of the 1977 year, with reductions also reported in the number of deaths and fetal deaths, according to a vital statistics report released by City Clerk Robert Stevens.

The report showed a total of 743 births in the area last year, down from 969 births during 1977, or a decrease of 23.4 percent. A 1978 total of 479 deaths was a decrease from 547 the previous year, down 14 percent. There were 12 fetal deaths during the past year, down from 14.

The statistics report includes births, deaths and fetal deaths reported within the area and does not reflect those involving local residents but occurring outside the area.

The year-end report was released after the clerk's office compiled vital statistics for the month of December, listing 67 births, 57 deaths and one fetal death.

These figures compared with 62 births, 47 deaths and one fetal death during December 1977. The largest number of births during any month in 1978 was 69 reported during May. The largest number of deaths occurred during December with the total of 57. Three fetals were reported for June, the largest number in any single month.

The number of births, fetal deaths and deaths during the 12 months of 1978, in that order, were:

January, 52-2-55; February, 68-0-39; March, 62-0-40; April, 49-1-39; May, 69-0-33; June, 60-3-39; July, 59-1-38; August, 60-1-33; September, 66-1-34; October, 67-0-46; November, 64-2-36; December, 67-1-57.

You still have time to gain an extra 1978 tax deduction with IRA or Keogh

You have until April 15, 1979—or until you file your 1978 income tax return—to establish an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) or to contribute a portion of your 1978 earnings to an existing Keogh Plan.

Through either plan, you can earn up to 8% annual interest on your contributions. And both contributions and interest earnings accumulate tax-free until you begin withdrawing these funds upon retirement—when you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket.

You're eligible to open an IRA as long as you don't participate in any other tax-qualified employee plan. A Keogh Plan allows persons with self-employment income to set aside tax-deductible savings.

Emphasize rebuilding existing Illinois roads

By KEN WATSON
Press-Record
Springfield Bureau

The Illinois highway program will take a sharp turn in 1979.

Transportation Secretary John D. Kramer: "We have shifted emphasis from new construction, the dominating factor in the 1960s and early 1970s when we were concentrating on building the interstate system, to rebuilding and modernizing the existing roads."

One part of the emphasis on maintenance will be filling those thousands of potholes that have bedeviled Illinois motorists and of which Democratic governor candidate Michael J. Bakalis sought to make a campaign issue last year.

Repair, replacement and modernization of hundreds of bridges, many considered especially hazardous for school buses, will also receive attention. Many of these, however, fall under local jurisdiction.

Kramer: "The state spends in excess of $100 million on its routes, and that's of all kinds of work, including widening, snow removal, pothole filling, and (general) roadway repair. One objective will be getting rid of bad curves."

"Almost all of those roads (with the exception of the interstates) go back to the (Gov.) Len Small bond issue (early 1920s). They were fine for the Model A."

Some of the original 18-foot-wide Small highways are still in use in some areas of Illinois.

Highway engineers feel that all highways should be at least 24 feet wide. Carrying through an intensive modernization and rehabilitation program probably will require an increase in state funds. The $600 million highway bond issue approved in 1970 is about all spent.

Kramer: "State revenues available for road maintenance and construction have declined pretty steadily for the last seven or eight years. This year we will have exhausted the current bond issue and the General Assembly will have to address itself to road building financing this spring."

The Transportation Department is inclined to let the legislature determine how the additional money needed should be raised.

But Gov. James R. Thompson has raised the possibility of an increase in the current 7½-cents-a-gallon tax. He has also suggested a possible increase in automobile registration fees, presently $18 a year for small cars and $30 a year for bigger ones.

The governor, who has consistently stressed that he is against any increase in general taxes, contends that any increase in the gas tax or auto registration fees would be a tax on the highways and wear them out.

With the recent 14 percent increase in the cost of imported oil, the prospects are already ominous for a stiff increase in gasoline prices next summer.

Whether the legislature would risk public censure by further increasing that cost in Illinois is doubtful.

Kramer makes the valid point that not all gas tax money goes to the state for highways work.

"Sixty percent of it is turned back to local governments. It's the high percentage in the nation."

Kramer expects the overall highway budget to go up about five to seven percent for the new fiscal year. "It will probably be up somewhat because highway construction has the highest rate of inflation after medical care and food."

Although the Illinois highway network is virtually completed, several new highways are moving off the drawing board and into reality.

They include the long-awaited Rockford to Decatur superhighway, a Chicago to Kansas City road via Quincy, and extension of the Central Illinois Expressway from Jacksonville to Quincy.

Kramer reports $40 million worth of work on the Rockford to Decatur highway is already under contract south of Rockford, plus several million dollars worth more north of Decatur.

Kramer: "State revenues available for road maintenance and construction have declined pretty steadily for the last seven or eight years. This year we will have exhausted the current bond issue and the General Assembly will have to address itself to road building financing this spring."

The Transportation Department is inclined to let the legislature determine how the additional money needed should be raised. But Gov. James R. Thompson has raised the possibility of an increase in the current 7½-cents-a-gallon tax. He has also suggested a possible increase in

"Additionally, we were successful in qualifying that highway along with the Illinois portion of the Chicago to Kansas City highway among just eight highways nationwide which were in a special bill in Congress."

The Illinois Congressional delegation, with some direct help from Thompson, was able to achieve, in another federal highway bill, authorization of construction of a new bridge over the Illinois River just north of Florence.

"It was included among just a handful of bridges nationwide. We're hopeful that we will be able to begin construction of that next fall."

"As you know, the Springfield to Quincy segment has been extended as far as Winchester, which means we're much farther along than we had anticipated."

The prospect of an economic recession this year has caused concern in some areas of state government. But Kramer feels that could, in some ways, be a plus for highways.

"If a recession" could affect us in a couple of ways. Higher interest rates will almost surely trigger a downturn in private construction, and this will bring pressure to increase public construction, of which road building is the largest part. "Every time there has been a downturn, there has been an increase in public works spending."

He sees no overall decline in highway construction work in Illinois this year because "roads continue to be absolutely vital to the economy of the state."

"Many government programs, welfare and others are targeted and very specific, it's different with transportation. Everybody likes their automobiles, and they use the roads."

Kramer: "State revenues available for road maintenance and construction have declined pretty steadily for the last seven or eight years. This year we will have exhausted the current bond issue and the General Assembly will have to address itself to road building financing this spring."

The Transportation Department is inclined to let the legislature determine how the additional money needed should be raised. But Gov. James R. Thompson has raised the possibility of an increase in the current 7½-cents-a-gallon tax. He has also suggested a possible increase in

Battle of the brains between SIUC, SIUC

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will enter mental competition with SIUC at Carbondale on Monday, Jan. 29, at 9:15 p.m. in the television studio at SIUC, when teams from the institutions participate in a "College Bowl" match.

Representing SIUC will be Kathy Walker and John Rendleman of Edwardsville, Mary Seston of Wood River and Don McDonough of Alton. Michael Markovich of Jerseyville serves as the team alternate. All of the competitors are full-time undergraduate students.

The team dominated four rounds of local competition in November to earn the honor of representing SIUC at the intercollegiate level.

Members of the Carbondale team are: Brian Cook, Wilmette; Mike Blum, Owings Mills, Md.; Josh Notowitz, Memphis, Tenn.; and Ken Greenfield, Carbondale.

Winner of the intercollegiate match will win a question and answer game that focuses on general academic subjects, the liberal arts, science, mathematics, sports, current affairs and general knowledge.

The game is played between two teams made up of four players. Correctly answered questions are rewarded by points. The team with the most points wins.

Sponsoring schools benefit from the competition through scholarships and prizes. Team members who participate in regional, national and world tournaments receive all-expense-paid trips.

Preceding the SIUC-SIUC battle will be a match between an SIUC student all-star team and an SIUC celebrity team. Television coverage of the competition between the universities will be presented by WSIU-TV, Channel 8, at 9 p.m. on Feb. 16.

GC couple makes movie debut in training film

By VALERIE EVENDEN Press-Record Staff Writer

A luscious tasting ice cream cake, shaped as a heart with swirls of American Beauty roses on top and first introduced in Granite City, may have propelled Robert and Becky Jones into new careers as movie stars.

A few months ago, Mr. and Mrs. Jones, owners of Baskin Robbins 31 Ice Cream store, 4 American Village Shopping Center, were featured panelists in a film made at a Burbank, Calif., movie studio for the Baskin Robbins firm.

The finished movie currently is being shown around the world — in Belgium, Japan, Puerto Rico, Canada, the United Kingdom and the United States — to owners and operators of more than 2,000 Baskin Robbins franchised stores.

In the film, the participants, all successful operators of one or more franchised stores, describe their achievements, which were attained through a variety of programs.

The current film, "Idea Exchange II," reviews methods of promoting ice cream desserts in the winter months, among other concepts offered as good business practices and community relations.

The Jones' were invited to take part in the movie for two excellent reasons. Both are civic-minded individuals and Becky Jones is the creator of a Baskin Robbins specialty dessert, now available at stores here at home and overseas.

It has been almost three years since Becky Jones introduced her Valentine Day ice cream cake to the Quad-City area.

The special dessert quickly became an established favorite and has been reproduced in increasing numbers each Valentine season.

At other times of the year, a facsimile of the Valentine dessert is made for customers seeking a birthday cake for "someone very special."

Whether the pure white icing with its border of deep red roses and delicate green leaves covers yellow, white or chocolate cake and ice cream, every morsel of the confection is guaranteed to please the most fastidious palate, ice cream devotees report.

For her creation, Becky won the coveted "Golden Scoop" award from Baskin Robbins, one of only three such awards bestowed each year.

As with most new ideas submitted to large corporations, the Valentine Day ice cream cake was subjected to customer response tests and marketing evaluation before being adopted eventually as a dessert to be offered in all Baskin Robbins stores.

The recipe was published last year in the company's internationally distributed house publication. Additionally, the company has developed a heart shaped stainless steel cutting device, resembling a giant-size cookie cutter, that makes the task of shaping the cakes much easier and more precise.

The cutting tool is demonstrated in the movie by Libby Lafferty of Los Angeles, Baskin Robbins home economist.

It's not only Becky's genius at creating ambrosial desserts (she is responsible for others, including a delicious tasting Grasshopper Pie) that turned the Jones' into movie stars.

Both Robert and his wife have shown keen interest in assimilating themselves and their business into community life.

"Becoming known in your community generates essential local interest and ties," Robert and Becky tell the viewing audience in the movie.

The narrator explains the Jones have found great success in "getting out from behind the counter."

Both have been frequent guest speakers at meetings of local service organizations.

They arrange special visits to the store by Brownie troops and other scouting groups, with the youngsters learning the story of ice cream and personally decorating clown cones as a special treat.

Robert is a member and served as president of the Career Advisory Council for Off-Campus Education in the Granite City School District.

He is an avid booster and employer of Granite City high school students involved in the Off-Campus training program.

The Jones' are proud of the success of their youthful employees and point with pride to Jerry Arnold of Granite City, who is the manager of the couple's second Baskin Robbins 31 Ice Cream store.

The newer store is located on Interstate 270 at Bellefontaine Road, just across the I-270 Mississippi River bridge from the Quad-Cities.

They opened the store last April.

Jerry Arnold, 18, worked at the Granite City store while in high school for more than a year-and-a-half.

He was assistant manager here and later managed the local store, including a period of time while the Jones' were in California.

"Jerry does a good job of supervising and he also is very good at decorating the different dessert items we offer," Jones said.

"After he graduated from Granite City High School South last June, we offered him a full-time job."

Elizabeth Hutson, a 1979 January graduate of Granite City High School North who also was a Coop student, presently is assistant manager at the American Village Shopping Center store.

In regards to his service and participation in the Off-Campus program, Robert has been highly commended for training and employing many students by the Granite City Board of Education.

He is an active member of the Granite City Rotary Club and the Finance Committee of Nameoki United Methodist Church.

The Jones are the parents of two daughters, Lisa, 12, and Andrea, 7.

This week, they acquired a new "adopted" daughter, Michaela Stoeckl, 17, from Hamburg, West Germany, a foreign exchange student being sponsored here by the Granite City Rotary Club.

"Mickey," as she is known, will be staying with the family for the remainder of the current high school year.

Until the weekend, Mickey has been living with the Joe Papa family here.

Three or four weeks ago, Becky and Robert Jones sat back in an audience of Baskin Robbins store owners, who were attending a regional meeting at the Sheraton-Westport Inn, and watched themselves on the screen.

"It looked pretty good," the couple said modestly.

Baskin Robbins must believe it's more than pretty good, as there are rumors a second film is in the offing for the Granite City Jones'.

THIRD JUDICIAL CIRCUIT STATE OF ILLINOIS COURT ROOM 12

HON. HORACE L. CALVO
JUDGE PRESIDING

THE SIGN ABOVE tells it. The sign is on a door you will only want to enter as a spectator. The judge (right) goes over a motion he is about to hear and (below) seems to beckon the photographer to the witness stand.

Deciding the future of others

Photos and text by Cathey Jamison

Calvo... the judge

Having to decide things that will have a permanent effect on the lives of others has got to be a hard row to hoe. For Madison County Circuit Judge Horace Calvo, making those kinds of decisions is an everyday occurrence.

Calvo, who is from Granite City, is the type of judge to whom making the punishment fit the crime is important. His main objective is to help those who came before him so that they never have to come before him again.

The judge is becoming known as one who gives jail time, both short terms in the county jail and longer terms in state institutions.

"There are many things I consider when determining sentence," he said. "Each case must be judged on its own merit and no two are alike."

"I must consider the type of crime I am dealing with. Extenuating circumstances also come into play. Did the defendant commit the crime on his own or was he just hung for the ride?"

"Each judge has his own ideas on crime and punishment," he continued.

"I feel there are times when sending the guilty party to jail will help him to straighten up. I am thinking more in terms of the youthful offender than the career criminal."

"Sometimes the young criminal, especially the youthful burglar, will benefit from a little jail time. Gives him a chance to look at his life and decide for himself that it might be time for him to change his way of living."

Despite the fact that Calvo must send people to jail, he is a compassionate man. Although he wishes there were better facilities for the younger offenders, he cannot see putting a convicted criminal on probation after he has shown himself to be one who will not benefit from it.

"People ask me how sending someone to prison can help," he said. "The prison system can help some develop a work ethic."

"The convicted felon is often one who has never had a good work record. The rigid schedules of prison life helps him to learn what it is like to get up every day and do an assigned task."

The judge does grant probation when he thinks it will be of some value. "Most first-time offenders are granted probation," he said.

"Conditions are put upon him that can help him turn his life around. He must get a job or take some sort of job training. He is watched pretty closely. And if probation works to rehabilitate him, then I have done the right thing by him."

Probation can be helpful for the first-time offender, according to Calvo. But those who do not straighten up find themselves before the judge again.

Putting the fellow on probation after he has committed another crime often cannot help him, Calvo believes. He said that this type of criminal has heard everything that the judge might have to tell him, from many people. "You do what you can," Calvo noted, "but some must go to the Department of Corrections; there is no alternative."

Sometimes they can be helped if they have a specific problem, according to Calvo. "If the problem is drugs, I can get him into," he said. "If there are programs that he can get off drugs, then he has a better chance of becoming a useful member of society."

Burglary is by far and away the crime committed most by young people, according to the judge.

"Some of the kids I get have been committing burglaries since they were 13 or 14 years old. By the time they get to my court, some of them are career burglars," he said.

"I have to try to deal with them in such a way that they will not victimize the public anymore."

It is the public that the judge considers when he sets bond. He makes it a point to find out what sort of a person he is dealing with before he decides.

The bond is going to be high for a gentleman who spent a great deal of his life committing crime. The fellow who has a job and family is more likely to get out on his own recognizance, since he is more likely to show up for trial."

The whole idea of bonding, according to Calvo, is to see to it that the defendant appears.

"There is a misconception about defendants out on bond," Calvo said. "The public has the idea that everyone who is out on bond is out there committing crimes every night."

"The offender is much more likely to be on his best behavior since, if he is caught committing a crime while out on bond, he is signing his way right into prison."

Once an offender has been convicted, the judge has to decide what to do with him. Calvo has many sources from which he gathers information to help him determine sentence.

A complete investigation is done into the background of the offender. Everyone who has any information about his background is questioned.

"I get a pretty good insight into the lives of those I must sentence," Calvo said. "Once I have that information, I can decide what type of sentence to hand down."

"If I cause a few to turn themselves around," he continued, "that's good. If I send someone who is really a bad guy to jail for a long time and protect the public from him, that is also good."

Some are helped by Judge Calvo's brand of justice, and some are not.

One thing is sure: he will give the offender a chance to "go straight." But woe be to him who must come before the judge a second time.

Special education rules revised by state; Mrs. Monroe re-elected

The State Board of Education has just approved revised regulations governing special education programs in Illinois schools.

The Rules and Regulations to Govern the Administration and Operation of Special Education that the State Board has adopted comply with provisions of the Education for All Handicapped Children Act of 1975 (Public Law 94-142).

That act requires all states receiving federal funds to have a policy in effect which assures a "free, appropriate" public education for all mentally or physically handicapped children.

The new rules were developed by a statewide task force which had been working for the past year to insure that regulations governing special education programs in Illinois schools comply with state and federal laws.

State Superintendent of Education Joseph M. Cronin said that the new regulations will be filed with the secretary of state's office this month and will become effective as of Feb. 1, 1979.

The State Board also approved the appointment of Elliot H. Goldstein, a DePaul University associate professor of law, to conduct a hearing and make findings and recommendations as to the compliance of Argo-Summit School District 104 with the state's desegregation rules.

The Argo-Summit district once submitted an acceptable desegregation plan but then withdrew the plan and has declined to file another. Argo-Summit requested the hearing to contest its pending nonrecognition status resulting from the board's finding that the district is not in compliance with rules governing racial segregation in Illinois schools.

Spt. Cronin explained that the hearing, which must begin within 30 days from the board's action, will be open to the public.

"The school district will continue on probationary status until the State Board acts upon the hearing officer's recommendations," Cronin said.

In other action, Chairman Jack Witkowski of Chicago, Vice-Chairman Charles M. Long of Wagoner and Secretary Gertrude R. Monroe of Collinsville were re-elected by the board to serve as its officers until July 1979.

The elections were held to bring the board into conformance with its bylaws, which specify that the State Board of Education "... shall biennially elect all officers from their membership during the first board meeting in July of the biennial year."

The State Board also pledged its support of Illinois Right-to-Read Week to be held May 6-12, 1979.

The Right-to-Read program sponsored by the United States Office of Education seeks to achieve functional literacy in more than 90 percent of the U.S. population by 1980.

"In an era in which increasing demands are being made for responsible citizenship, literacy means much more than being able to read a simple book," Dr. Cronin said.

"It is an avenue to greater social and economic opportunities, to deciding one's own destiny, and to being able to contribute more fully to the welfare of our society."

Prizes were awarded and ribbons were handed out to Norma Turner, first prize, Reyth Stallings, second, and Nina Limbuth, third prize. Honorable mentions went to Review cell research

Paul Goldenbaum, recipient of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville 1977 research scholar award's junior scholar award, commented on his award-winning project, "Transport of Cyclic AMP Across the Cell Membrane," Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. in the International Room of the University Center. He is an associate professor in the department of biological sciences.

This colloquium is the fifth in a series of events honoring winners of the Research Scholar Award. The awards are presented to those SIUE faculty members who submit the best new research proposals, as judged by an all-university panel.

Each award consists of financial support of project costs and released time from academic duties. Prof. Goldenbaum's research project concerns cyclic AMP, a molecule found in most living organisms, which regulates many aspects of metabolism.

He wanted to discover if there is a carrier which allows cyclic AMP to enter a cell through its "wall" or membrane. Scientists had not previously known whether it entered cells or acted upon them in another way. He said this is an important determination to make in order to better understand how AMP affects metabolism.

Goldenbaum found that cyclic AMP does enter the cells of a strain of bacteria known as "E. Coli," and he also discovered the carrier system by which the molecule enters.

The colloquium is open to the public, and refreshments will be served. The event is being sponsored by the Graduate School of SIUE.

Art Guild meets

The Granite City Art Guild held its monthly meeting last week at 1412 Madison Ave. The program for the evening included members bringing in and discussion paintings of their own.

Prizes were awarded and ribbons were handed out to Norma Turner, first prize, Reyth Stallings, second, and Nina Limbuth, third prize. Honorable mentions went to Vivian Forshoe, Jeanette Pinkston and Eva Meadows. Future plans of the Guild are to have speakers at the meetings. Evie Roberts, an award-winning watercolor artist, will speak at the Feb. 20 meeting.

In the future, Mary Schisler, a local artist, also will give a talk to the members of the Guild.
